John D. and the Vine
Four-Billion Power
Two Ate Seven or Eight
R. H. Grant Observes

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., [illegible] to the International [illegible] and Endowing the Shakespeare Memorial Theater, says the [illegible] of the debt which [illegible] Britain and the United States owe to Shakespeare."

Rockefeller millions are working usefully all over the world, pushing American trade, fighting disease, building hospitals and colleges, repairing and protecting irreplaceable works of art.

• • •

In his old age Mr. Rockefeller, like his only son, does more good things than a million vines, making his name useful all over the world. And, fortunately, he is no dry, leafless vine on a hillside, but full of life, paying it and enjoying it in spite of his 88 years.

NICHOLAS M. SCHENCK, succeeding Marcus Loew as head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, believer in advertising has a new idea. His powerful movie lantern, with four thousand candle power back of it, scatters advertisements of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's Capitol Theater all over the Broadway landscape. Mr. Schenck used the Paramount Theater, belonging to his friendly rivals, Famous Players, as a screen on which to throw, in letters 150 feet high, the advice, "Go to the Capitol Theater for the best in movies; pictures."

• • •

WHAT Zukor and Lasky of "Famous" will invent to offset this will be something more original than an injunction.

• • •

IT is suggested that the four-million candlelight lantern may be raised to forty billions and the sky used as a screen. From that, heaven protect us. The heavens should continue to "declare the glory of God," not the glory of soap, breakfast food or even movies pictures. Mr. Schenck, who realizes that, says: "No; not on the sky; everywhere else."

A FISHING boat had drifted 1,000 miles when it was picked up off our northwest coast. White bones on the deck showed the part that cannibalism had played in the tragedy of the sea.

Two that died, last of all, were ate. The others, seven or eight, had been eaten to prolong the lives of the two. No man can say what he would do under certain circumstances, unless he has been tested under those circumstances.

R. H. GRANT, super-sales manager of General Motors, back from a circuit of the company's large cities, reports "exceptionally good conditions in the southeast and southwest on account of cotton, excellent in the northwest on account of wheat, and improving in the middle west as a result of a bigger corn crop than was expected."

• • •

MR. GRANT'S impressions are reliable, based on the ability of the people to buy automobiles. His agents' reports, read on his return to Detroit, confirm his views. Mr. Grant found that they had sold in October 112,061 Chevrolet cars, against 50,477 Chevrolets in October, 1926. There seems to be prosperity throughout the country.

• • •

MR. EDISON says European nations "will war on us sooner or later." Perhaps they WON'T. By fighting us they might save ten thousand millions they owe us. But to cross the ocean and conquer even one narrow strip of this country would cost more than the ten billions they might save. And they can save that sum more economically by not paying it.

Europe, however, might cost this country many billions by one single air raid if the United States should remain unprotected in the air.

JAPANESE unable to read or write are allowed to vote for the first time. The illiterate, more than others, need the vote. If their government makes them happy they vote FOR it. If it makes them unhappy they vote AGAINST it. That's the essence of voting. Therefore it was wise to let women vote. They won't accept excuses or torchlight parades in place of results.

$436,220 WILL BE ADDED TO TAX DUPLICATE

Valuation of Property in County Will Be Increased in 1928

BUILDING RESPONSIBLE

300 New Homes, 400 Garages Figured in Construction Estimate

The Marion County tax duplicate will be increased $436,220 during the coming tax year as a result of building construction, it was announced today at the county auditor's office. Work of compiling the tax valuations of building improvements was completed yesterday.

Although no definite figures are available from last year for an accurate comparison, the number and cost of building projects listed for 1927 is larger than the record for 1926, according to Miss Edith Eibling, deputy auditor in charge of the tabulation work.

The report includes all new buildings and remodeling and repair of old buildings, which were completed or in process of construction on the first Monday of April, the beginning of the present tax year.

300 New Homes

It is estimated that approximately 300 new homes are included and that garages total about 400. Construction of business property was below the usual yearly average, the tax report shows.

Of the $436,220 total for the entire county, $359,230 covers building construction in the city of Marion and $76,990 represents the value of work done in the villages and farm districts.

Compiling of the tax duplicates for the coming year is progressing rapidly and will probably be completed during the latter part of November, it was stated at the auditor's office. A substantial increase over last year's total tax valuation is expected.

Vluations of public utility properties in the county, which are to be fixed by the state tax commission, are expected to be completed next week. Although no definite information is available at this time, it is indicated that the utility valuations will show an increase of approximately $200,000 over last year.

CLOSE VILLAGE BANK IN HANCOCK COUNTY

State Examiner Declares Irregularities Exist in Arcadia Institution's Records

Columbus, Nov. 3—The bank of the Arcadia Banking & Savings Co. at Arcadia, Hancock County, was closed today by order of E. H. Blair, state banking superintendent, it was announced by the banking department. Blair's action was based upon receipt of information from W. J. Skehan, Toledo, a state bank examiner, who declared irregularities existed in the bank's affairs. Extent of the alleged irregularities were unknown, it was stated.

Superintendent Blair, Attorney Charles G. Saffin, counsel for the department, and Charles W. Miller, liquidating agent, left this morning for Arcadia to aid Skehan in conducting an investigation, it was announced.

The bank, organized May 10, 1907, reported to the state banking department Sept. 12, last, that it had resources totalling $279,131 and a surplus of $13,500.

RECOVER 14 BODIES IN FERRY DISASTER

Death Toll May Mount to 40; Lives of Children Imperiled

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 3— Many persons were drowned and the lives of a large number of school children imperilled when the ferryboat, Greycliff, carrying 150 passengers, was rammed and sunk by the steamship, Tahiti today. Within several hours of the disaster 14 bodies had been recovered and 37 injured persons taken to the hospital. Many of the passengers were children on their way to school.

After a checkup of missing, officials said they feared the death roll might reach 40. Some of the injured are in critical condition.

TEN JAP BOATS WRECKED; 50 DEATHS

Tokio, Nov. 3—Ten Japanese steamers have been wrecked off the Kamchatka Coast with the resultant loss of 50 lives, according to the Nichi Nichi, a Japanese newspaper, today. The destroyed ships were believed to have been secretly fishing in forbidden Russian waters.

ENGLAND TO CANADA SERVICE IS PLANNED

London, Nov. 3—Direct airship service between England and Canada may be inaugurated within 10 months, it was learned today. Sir Sifton Brancker, director of commercial aviation, revealed that two giant air ships are now under construction here for experimental voyages to Canada. He said if the experiments were successful a regular service would be started. The airships will accommodate 100 passengers and each will have an average speed of 75 miles an hour.

FEODOR CHALIAPIN IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Report Abroad That Famous Russian Singer Plans Another Marriage

Moscow, Nov. 3—A divorce was granted today to Feodor Chaliapin, the famous Russian basso. Chaliapin is now in Paris, where he filed suit for divorce through the Russian embassy a week ago. Mme. Chaliapin and her daughters are in Moscow.

The singer who is well-known in the United States, is said to be planning another marriage.

First intimation of the suit was contained in a legal notice printed here on Oct. 28. Even Mme. Chaliapin was said to have been taken unawares. Although a Russian citizen the basso could not return to Moscow to file suit in person, because he is virtually an exile. He was recently accused by the Soviets of refusing to return for a series of concerts. His property was then confiscated. Later Chaliapin is said to have given an interview to a Paris newspaper which displeased the Soviet officials still further. He was then warned not to return here.

Yolle Ignatievna Chaliapin, the divorced wife, is 54 years old. She was a well-known dancer before her marriage. It is understood that she will receive about $300 monthly alimony from her former husband, which is a large sum in Soviet Russia.

FRANCE, U. S. NEAR AGREEMENT ON PACT

Tariff Controversy Soon To Reach Negotiation Steps, It Is Believed

Washington, Nov. 3—France and the United States have reached a general agreement on all the major points at issue in the tariff controversy, it was announced at the state department today.

Only a few minor points remain to be adjusted before France is notified that the United States is ready to negotiate a new treaty, and these probably will be cleared up in a few days.

GOVERNOR VOTES

And His Whole Family Sends Ballots to Tuscarawas County

Columbus, Nov. 3—Announcement was made today that Gov. Vic Donahey, his wife, their son, John, and the governor's mother-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Kingsbury, mailed their absent voters ballots to the election officials of Goshen twp., Tuscarawas County, where the four maintain a legal residence.

The only indication as to how they voted is contained in the governor's statement that they all supported a proposed $195,000 bond issue for construction of a new infirmary in Tuscarawas County.

URGES MERGER OF RAILROADS AS FARM HELP

Senator Brookhart Charges Farmers Paying Roads 15-Cent Tax

WILL SPONSOR BILL

Iowan Declares Relief Measure Will Not Aid Agricultural Ills

Washington, Nov. 3—Consolidation of all American railroads under a single management, with their earnings fixed by law, was proposed today by Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, as a step necessary to place American agriculture on the economic basis now enjoyed by industry.

Brookhart charged the farmers were paying the railroads a tax of 15 cents a bushel on their wheat crops due to the present system of private management. He pointed out that Canadian farmers, marketing their crops at Winnipeg, received $1.41½ a bushel for No. 1 northern wheat on Oct. 29 while American farmers at Des Moines received but $1.20 to $1.26⅝ a bushel "in spite of the fact that the Canadian farmer must ship his wheat further over the railroads than the American farmer."

Pays Tax, Claim

As long as the railroads remain under private management, Brookhart said, the farmers will not receive economic relief no matter what farm bill is enacted by congress. He indicates he would sponsor a railroad consolidation bill at the next session.

"The American farmer," said Brookhart, "is compelled to pay a transportation tax of 15 cents per bushel on wheat to the railroads in the United States for their so-called efficient private management, from which the Canadian farmer is relieved by the government-operated roads in his country. The farmers of the United States are

OFFICIAL SCANS HOTEL RECORDS

Government Determined To Get to Bottom of Mistrial Circumstances

Washington, Nov. 3—The government's determination to go to the bottom of the circumstances leading up to the mistrial of the Fall-Sinclair case was further evidenced today when Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw subpenaed hotel records of all the telephone calls made by Fall and Sinclair and their attorneys.

These calls, it was said, are expected to throw some additional light on the activities of the 16 Burns detectives who shadowed the jurors night and day. Burkinshaw has sworn to his belief that the detectives were employed by Harry F. Sinclair, the millionaire defendant.

Mark B. Thompson, attorney for former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, appeared this morning before the federal grand jury which is probing the government charges of jury tampering. Thompson was called to tell the jury what took place in a telephone conversation which had been traced between him and Dan Jackson, assistant attorney general.

To Quiz Day

The Fall lawyer and Jackson are known to be life-long friends, but there was nothing to show that the conversation had anything to do with the jury tampering charges.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Burk-

CINCINNATI SENDS WREATH FOR TOMB

Floral Token Brought to City by Boy Scouts Representing Mayor

The City of Cincinnati paid its annual tribute to the memory of the late Warren G. Harding yesterday when two boy scouts were sent from that city as emissaries of Mayor Season Good to lay a wreath on the tomb of Mr. and Mrs. Harding.

The wreath was a beautiful creation of American Beauty roses and white carnations.

Cincinnati has a perpetual fund entrusted to the mayor, from which he defrays the expense of placing a wreath on the Harding tomb on Nov. 2, the birthday of the late president.

TY UNDECIDED

Cobb May Receive Other Baseball Offers, He Says

Philadelphia, Nov. 3—Ty Cobb, still undecided as to his baseball plans for the future, prepared today to leave for his Augusta, Ga., home.

"My release should be along in about 10 days," said Cobb, "and then possibly I may receive offers from other clubs which may call me back into the game for another year."

Cobb and Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, decided that baseball in Philadelphia would not warrant Cobb's being with the team next season, because with no Sunday baseball permitted in this city the club could ill afford to pay the high salary Cobb commands.

Cobb and his wife will leave this afternoon for Augusta.

Ensign McCrae explained the national assessment which is requested from each corps and goes for the maintenance of the Salvation Army Training School in New York City. Miss Ruth Weaver and Miss Hulda Millington, this city, are students at the training school.

CANDIDATES HIT BY TRUAX IN FARM TALK

Ohioan Characterizes Officials with Agricultural Relief Schemes as "Wolves"

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 3—Characterizing as "wolves" some "prominent officials and senators" who are proposing new schemes of form relief and continuing their "undying opposition" to the McNary-Haugen Bill, Charles V. Truax, agriculture director of Ohio, spoke before the conference of farm leaders here last night.

"First and foremost of these is the presidential and cabinet group," said Truax. "Coolidge, Mellon, Hoover and Jardine, named in the order of their importance and undying opposition to any legislation that will really help the farmer. Farmers should look with suspicion upon any plan proposed by Mr. Coolidge, who denied the farmers their share of the loaf, and with the same stroke of the pen raised tariff on pig iron for the benefit of one of our infant industries, the United States Steel Corporation, who declared a dividend of 40 per cent. in 1926. His plan can only have one object, that of deceiving agriculture in preparation for the 1928 campaign."

Truax said Secretary Hoover is the "known and avowed enemy of agriculture," and declared that Hoover and another "safe and sane easterner" were being groomed for the presidency. The same "eastern interests" he said are planning also to name the Democratic candidate, "so that regardless of which party loses, they win."

He denied the prosperity of the farmers, citing figures on the comparative values of farm products produced in Ohio during the past few years to show a decline amounting to millions of dollars.

Wed 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Artopoeus, 295 Barnhart-st, Will Observe Anniversary by Receiving Friends and Relatives Sunday

OTTO ARTOPOEUS

MR. AND MRS. OTTO ARTOPOEUS will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at their home, 295 Barnhart-st. They will observe the anniversary by receiving their friends informally between the hours of 2 and 9 o'clock at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Artopoeus were married at Green Camp, by a justice of the peace and went to housekeeping on a farm about eight miles south of Marion. They came to Marion 21 years ago and practically all this time Mr. Artopoeus has been employed with the Huber Manufacturing Co.

MRS. OTTO ARTOPOEUS

Children who will celebrate the anniversary with Mr. and Mrs. Artopoeus are Mrs. Cora Kessler and Edward Artopoeus, Columbus; Mrs. Bertha Hawkins, Jefferson-st; Mrs. Ida Piefer, Grandview; Mrs. Herbert Hyder, Barnhart-st; Fred Artopoeus, Chicago, and Jacob Artopoeus, Barnhart-st. They also have 21 grandchildren and one great-grandson. Mr. Artopoeus will be 74, Christmas Day and was born in New York City, while his wife, who was formerly Katherine Moyer, was 73 years old, Sept. 28, and was born in Waldo township.

Hazen Backer Wagers $200 Mayor Will Be Victorious Over William H. Hoberman

Offers Even Money That Present Incumbent Will Retain Office; Others Expected To Post Bets on Outcome of Contest

Although the state of apathy and apparent lack of interest which has prevailed in Marion in connection with the fall political campaign seems to be practically unchanged with election day less than a week away, there are occasional signs which indicate that there may be an awakening of the electorate before the time comes for casting ballots.

Among the first developments along that line is a $200 election wager, posted yesterday at an up-town business place which is usually betting headquarters during political campaigns. This wager, the first listed in connection with next Tuesday's election, offers even money that Mayor Hazen will be victorious over his opponent, William H. Hoberman.

It is expected that before election night arrives, numerous bets will be posted not only on the mayoralty race but other contests for city offices and the several special proposals which are to come up for a vote. Interest in the Marshall bill referendum is likely to result in wagers on its fate in Marion County, it is predicted.

Lighter Betting

The general prediction, however, is that betting will be considerably lighter this year than in connection with elections in the past when contests were more spirited and public interest ran at a higher ebb.

Final preparations for election day are now in progress at the board of elections office. The board will be in session Saturday and Monday afternoons from 1 o'clock until 4 o'clock to receive applications for registration from persons who were unable to register on two days scheduled for that purpose last month. Special permits will be granted to voters who were ill or absent from the city on the regular registration days.

These registrations will be made at all of the city's voting places from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m., Monday.

Saturday Last Day

Saturday will be the last day for casting of absent voters' ballots, this privilege being extended to persons who will be away from home and unable to visit the polls on election day.

Up to noon today 40 absent voters' ballots had been cast. This is considerably below the usual average preceding city elections, indicating that the final total will fall below normal. A last minute rush is expected Saturday, which may result in a total comparing favorably with former years, election officials said today.

UNIFORM NARCOTIC LAW MEETING GOAL

Draft of Proposed Measure To Be Submitted at Committee Session

New York, Nov. 3—Adoption of a draft of a proposed uniform state narcotic defense law is one of the principal matters before the first conference of committees of the World Conference on Narcotic Education and the International Narcotic Education Association, which begins a three-days' session here this afternoon.

The draft has been prepared and will be submitted to the gathering tomorrow by Capt. Richmond P. Hobson, of Los Angeles, president of the International Narcotic Education Association.

Nearly all the states in the union have their own narcotic statutes. Some of these laws are rudimentary and others ineffectual, delegates say. Probably no two statutes are the same. Divergent or ineffective state laws, delegates assert, encourage and promote illegitimate traffic in drugs across state borders.

WILL BE HEARD TUESDAY NIGHT

On Columbia Chain

Cap'n Kidd and his lusty band of buccaneers are scheduled to entertain in an hour's program over the Columbia network of which station WAIU, Columbus, is a member, at 10 o'clock Friday night. The Cap'n Kidd hour will be a regular Friday night feature over Columbia network stations in the future.

"An Old Guitar and An Old Refrain," will open the program of 16 numbers of dinner-dance music to be broadcast over station WJZ and the blue network at 6 o'clock Friday night. "Moonlight Waters," and "Are You Lonesome Tonight," are other numbers included in the program.

"Schools and Churches," is the O. Henry short story to be featured in the Retold Tale program from station WJZ and the blue network at 8 o'clock Friday night.

Rosario Bourdon will feature the Saint Saens "Septette" in the program to be broadcast from station WEAF and the red network at 8 o'clock Friday night. The "Septette" will be performed by an instrumental group consisting of a trumpet, two violins, Viola, 'cello, bass, and piano.

November will usher in two important changes in the weekly broadcast of the Whitall Anglo persians. This group beginning Friday night will go on the air at 9 o'clock instead of 10 o'clock as it did previously. Included in the stations to be added to the Persian's program broadcasts are WOC, Davenport; WCCO, Minneapolis, and WOW, Omaha.

Among the best features to go on the air tonight are: Maxwell Hour to chain from WJZ, and Eskimos to chain from WEAF, both at 9 o'clock.

GERMAN REICHSWEHR CHIEF IN AMERICA

Gen. Wilhelm Heye in United States To "See All He Can"

San Francisco, Nov. 3—Refusing to discuss politics, because he was too often misquoted, but ready to answer any other questions pertaining to Germany, Gen. Wilhelm Heye, chief of the German Reichswehr, was in San Francisco today.

Accompanying General Heye were his son, Capt. Hellmuth Heye, Col. A. L. Conger, military attache at the American Embassy in Berlin, Major Jurger Stumpff, aide to the general, and Major Frank E. Mason of the U. S. A. Reserve. They arrived here yesterday from Wyoming where the party inspected Fort D. A. Russell.

Gen. John L. Hines, commander of the ninth corps area, and his staff, paid their respects to General Heye upon his arrival. Today General Heye will call on General Hines and will inspect the Presidio, Crissey Field and Fort Scott. General Heye and his party will leave here tonight for Los Angeles.

Speaking through his interpreter, General Heye said that he was not in the United States for the primary purpose of making military observations, but rather "to see everything he could see."

General Heye was outspoken in his praise of President Von Hindenburg.

"The people," he said, "are quite content and satisfied with his regime."

He was also impressed by the industrial organization of this country, expressing admiration of the scope on which the industries are operated.

BERNICE BAKER HOSTESS TO MEMBERS OF CLASS

The time was spent with games and awards were presented to Wayne Imbody and Ellsworth Drake was consoled.

Members of the class present were Misses Inez Everett, Dorothy Ramsey, Bernice Peak, Marie Plunk and Ethel Schaber; Messrs. Robert Drake, Robert Brown, Wayne Imbody, Ellsworth Drake and Wallace Jenner.

Guests were Mrs. Frank Plunk, Mr. Charles Schaber, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Baker.

PARENTS TO LEARN PUPILS' STANDING

State University To Issue Reports on Progress of Freshmen Students

Marion Star Bureau, Ohio State University.

Columbus, Nov. 3—Parents of freshmen students at Ohio State University will be notified of the progress of their sons and daughters before the fall quarter has terminated, according to an announcement of Pres. George W. Rightmire, recently.

Cards for reports on mid-quarter standing of all freshmen will be sent by the university registrar to the chairmen of all of the departments. After the cards have been checked with all of the grades of the freshmen students, appropriate reports will be forwarded at once to the parents of the students.

By the plan formerly in effect, students were unaware as to their standing in the courses they were enrolled until the end of the quarter following the examinations. A mid-quarter announcement of the freshman's grades will give him a chance to better them before the final tests, university officials believe.

SEE O K ON MERGER OF VAN SWERINGENS

Fate of Huge Rail Consolidation Rests with Commission

Washington, Nov. 3—The fate of the Van Sweringen billion dollar railroad merger, under which the two Cleveland financiers propose to link up the Erie and Pere Marquette with the Chesapeake & Ohio through stock ownership, rests today with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Following two days of hectic argument, during which the proponents of the plan sought to convince the commission that it was an ideal transportation arrangement, while the opposition asserted it was nothing but a speculative proposition designed to enrich O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen at the expense of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the commission took the case under consideration.

A decision probably will not be reached before January and it is the general opinion, both here and in Wall Street, that the commission will authorize the merger and thus pave the way for a general consolidation of the railroads into a limited number of systems.

Probe Plea Fails

The demand of Henry W. Anderson and Thomas B. Gay, counsel for the minority group of stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio, that the commission call upon the department of justice to make an investigation of the financial transactions of the Van Sweringen brothers in connection with their railroad and real estate deals, apparently fell upon deaf ears.

Steadily rising market prices, encouraged largely by the prospects of the Van Sweringens getting their consolidation plan through, have piled up profits to unbelievable heights since these two men made their original investment some years ago, Gay asserted. The Van Sweringens, who began their meteoric career as Cleveland, Ohio, newsboys less than half a century ago, stand to win more than $50,000,000 clear profit from this merger plan, even if it is not approved by the commission, Gay charged.

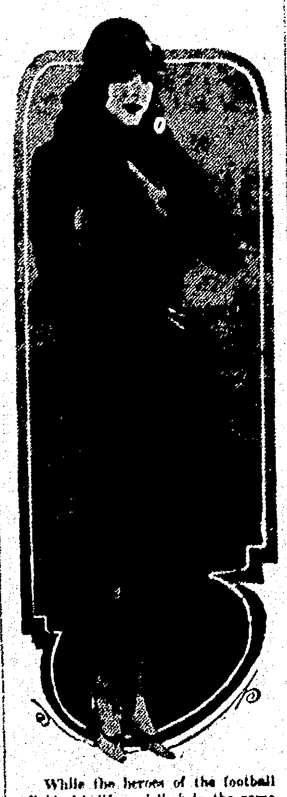
How About Improvement?

"But, after all, isn't the crux of this whole question whether or not consolidation of these roads would improve the nation's transportation system?" sharply inquired Commissioner Campbell. "Would not that overshadow these financial transactions if they were not too serious?"

"What if they lost $50,000,000?" Commissioner Hall, soon to resign from the commission, pointedly asked. "What significance do you attach to whether they make a profit out of this proposition or lose money by it?"

Gay agreed that railroad combinations could not be accomplished without some such financial transactions, but insisted that the Van Sweringen proposal was an example of how far they could go.

FOR FOOTBALL FIELD



While the heroes of the football field risk life and limb in the game for the glory of their alma mater, their lady loves risk catching an unromantic cold in the head in the grandstands. A warm as well as smart coat is a necessity, then, for the fair co-ed who would cheer her college team on to victory.

This handsome pony coat answers both requirements. A straightline, wraparound model collared and cuffed in mink. Worn by Marian Nixon.

Little Green Capsule Stops Rheumatic Agony

Every once in a while a real discovery is made in medical history—one that benefits a host of unfortunate people.

And now it's the patient men and women who have long suffered the torturing rheumatic agony of pain racked, swollen joints whose turn has come—who have drawn the prize.

The fame of the little green capsule, because of its canny power to speedily stop the terrible rheumatic pains that make life almost unbearable, is rapidly spreading all over America.

You go about conquering your merciless rheumatic enemy in a different way—a knock-out way. Every hour the first day you take one little green capsule for just ten hours—then relief comes.

The second day, take one every two hours for 12 hours—Then take 4 little green capsules every day until every little twinge and every bit of tenderness is gone and your rheumatic troubles have ceased.

The little green capsule now so much in demand from coast to coast must have a name so it is known in every worth-while drug store in America as Allenrhu Number 2.

As is usual with successful remedies, there will probably be imitations so for your own protection insist on Allenrhu Number 2.

And please remember this—the little green Capsule must give you prompt relief—must give you abundant satisfaction—must free you from rheumatic distress or the price you pay for the first full bottle will be promptly refunded by Bradley's, Henney & Cooper or any reputable druggist in America.—Adv.

GERMAN DOCTOR'S DISCOVERY CURED HIS GALLSTONES

Urged on by intense suffering due to Gallstone and Stomach trouble, an old German Doctor frantically searched for a cure. At last, after numerous disappointments, he discovered and prepared a treatment that cured him of Gallstones. His treatment has already been taken by thousands and the amazing results these sufferers report indicate the merit of the Doctor's discovery. Dr. Hildebrand's Laboratories, Dept. 1742, 155 N. Union Ave., Chicago, Ill., for a limited time is now offering to send a test treatment free to sufferers. Anyone troubled with Gallstones or Stomach disorders should write them for the free test at once.—Adv.

paying a like excess discrimination on all farm products. This discrimination cannot be removed by merely passing a farm bill.

"It will require a railroad bill also, and one of far-reaching effectiveness to remove this excess transportation charge. The railroads of the United States ought to be operated at lower rates and with a better service than the Canadian roads."

Cites Four Causes

Brookart named four causes of high railroad rates in the United States. He charged:

1. The Interstate Commerce Commission fixed an excessive valuation of $18,900,000,000 on the railroads at a time when their bonds and stocks totalled but $12,000,000,000.

2. The commission allowed the capitalization of unearned increment, which "adds from two to three hundred millions of capital costs."

3. That waste in competition adds $400,000,000 a year to operating costs; and,

4. Excessive profits are paid by the railroads to their subsidiaries for supplies, the cost being added to operating expenses.

Need Railroad Bill

"The farm bill will not remove this discrimination," Brookhart insisted. "It will require a railroad bill to consolidate the railroads by condemnation of their stocks and bonds, and to provide for their operation in a little private corporation, earnings of which shall be fixed by law, and with the power in congress to recapture the stock at par.

"The Canadians have pointed us the way, and it is a success without a question of doubt in Canada.

"During the first year after the roads were turned back to their private owners, the operating expenses were increased by 1485 million dollars. The railroads claimed only 800 millions of this to be labor increase and the balance is the graft and the inefficiency of private operation."

COURT NEWS

Suit Reinstated

A suit brought by the state of Ohio on behalf of Landing Aldrich, naming Seth Knoch as defendant, has been reinstated in the court of common pleas as the result of a motion to set aside an order of the common pleas court under which the action was dismissed several months ago. The motion was granted yesterday by Judge Scofield.

Aldrich, a former employe of Knoch, asked judgment for injuries alleged to have been sustained while at work. The state is interested in the case because of its liability under provisions of the workmen's compensation law.

Partition Decreed

An order of partition has been issued in the suit of Orpha Beaver against Lewis E. Patten and others and Andrew Baldauf, John Oborn and H. F. Good named as commissioners to appraise property involved in the action.

Partition has also been ordered in the suit of Walter F. Moyer against William Moyer and others and J. B. Allmendinger, C. H. Knickle and Henry Gabriel named as commissioners.

FORMER MARION MAN CLAIMED IN TOLEDO

Charles Frank Roush, 70, Dies After Operation; Son Lives Here

Word was received by relatives here this noon of the death of Charles Frank Roush, 70, a former Marion man, who died following a major operation at a Toledo Hospital this morning. He had been ill only a short time and had submitted to the operation Sunday.

Mr. Roush was born in Richland Township and had lived in Marion and vicinity until 25 years ago. He had been employed at the Huber and Fairbanks Mfg. Cos. when he resided here. His wife, formerly Barbara Trefz, was also originally from this city. He was a member of the Lutheran Church, east of the city. Funeral services are to be held at his home in Toledo Saturday and burial made there.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Harry Tallman of Richwood, Mrs. E. J. O'Donnell and Mrs. William Valequette of Toledo, two sons, Herbert E. Roush, Marion-av. and Frank Roush of Toledo, a sister, Mrs. Fred Wildermuth, Elm-st, and five grandchildren.

HERE'S GOOD RECIPE FROM MRS. THURN

CORN MEAL BATTER CAKES

One pint meal, sifted, add one teaspoonful salt and scald with enough boiling water to wet good. When a little cool, add two tablespoonfuls flour and beat in an egg, thin to a very thin batter with sweet milk, fry in deep fat.

FLOATING ISLAND

Put a pint of milk on the fire in a double boiler. Beat the whites of 4 eggs about half, then add an even tablespoonful of granulated sugar to each white and beat until very stiff. Flavor with very little extract of almond. Take up the beaten whites by spoonfuls and cook 2 minutes in the hot milk, skim out and put aside to cool. Mix 1 heaping teaspoonful of cornstarch in a little cold milk, add to the yolks with 4 tablespoonfuls of sugar and add to the hot milk, cook until thick. Just before serving beat a cupful of whipped cream into the custard.

COCOA ICING

Into a pan put 1-3 cup of fat. When melted stir into it 4 teaspoons of cocoa and let it cook in the butter stirring constantly. Add about 2 cups of powdered sugar. Add this alternately with sweet cream to a spreading consistency. Flavor with vanilla.

JURY WILL PROBE HERBERT CHARGES

Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Takes Action; Bender Says He Has Proof

Cleveland, Nov. 3—Charges that state prohibition agents and justices of the peace have been "planting" liquor on innocent persons, and taking orders from the Anti-Saloon League, will be investigated by the Cuyahoga County Grand Jury, according to a statement issued today by Edward C. Stanton, county prosecutor.

The charges were made by State Senator Paul M. Herbert of Columbus Tuesday and Senator George H. Bender of this city has offered to assist Herbert in proving his allegations.

Bender declared he could also prove that agents in this county have been deliberately inactive for the last seven months in order to develop a favorable reation to the Marshall Justice of the Peace Bill which will be voted on at this election. He also declared he could show that as a rule small liquor violators in this county are arrested and the larger operators ignored.

The prosecutor has arranged a conference with Bender today in order to gain further information concerning alleged irregularities in prohibition enforcement.

McDonald, state prohibition commissioner, branded as "propaganda" the letter of Herbert to McDonald, in which Herbert said he would demand a probe by the Ohio Legislature of alleged irregularities involving the Ohio Prohibition Department and the Ohio Anti-Saloon League.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT

Inshaw is going to attempt to force A. Mason Day, vice president of the Sinclair Exporation Co., and alleged "contact man" between the Burns detectives and Sinclair, to testify. Day previously has refused on the ground he might incriminate himself.

Burinshaw planned to again bring Day before the jury this afternoon and subject him to a prepared list of questions. Failing to answer, he will be hailed before Supreme Court Justice Wendell Stafford and further questioned, leaving to the judge the decision as to whether or not he actually would incriminate himself and whether he should be compelled to testify or judged in contempt.

To Hear Jurors

The grand jury also will hear today from the discharged jurors. Burkinshaw planned to assemble them all in his office—including E. J. Kidwell, the "good yes and no man" whose loose tongue was largely responsible for the mistrial—and go over the whole situation with them, later taking them singly before the superior jury. Burkinshaw is hopeful that, in view of late developments incidents that occurred during the hearing of the trial, not then considered significant may come back to them. He wants to ascertain if any were aware they were constantly trailed as the detailed reports seized in Monday's raid prove.

Kidwell will again be questioned about his alleged statements in the thirst emporium that he expected an "auto as long as a block" out of the trial.

Flocks of subpenas have gone out under Burnshaw's direction, he having been given carte blanche authority to proceed by Owen J. Roberts, chief federal oil prosecutor. William J. Burns, famous detective heading the agency bearing his name and his son, W. Sherman Burns, have been called from New York in an effort to ascertain who the mysterious "client" is that the seized agent reports mention.

PROMINENT MEN WILL ATTEND BULL TRIAL

Event Will Be Staged by Marion County Cattlemen at Fairground

W. W. Hadley, of the Holstein Association, H. E. Denison, of the American Jersey Cattle Club, Floyd S. Barlow of the Ohio Guernsey Cattle Club and C. L. Blackman, of Ohio State university, are expected to be among those who will attend the scrub bull trial which will be staged by Marion County cattle men and instructors and students of the vocational agriculture schools of the county at the fairground on Armistice Day. Speakers will be C. I. Miller, president of the Ohio Holstein-Friesian Association and T. M. Palmer, Agricultural Agent of the Erie railroad.

In addition to the trial of the scrub bull, the affair will be featured by the official presentation of the community bull, by the Erie railroad to the farmers of Marion County. The bull was given the county as an award by the Erie railroad last spring when the county led in the largest number of bulls purchased from a bull special operated by the Erie.

Attorney John H. Clark will preside as judge at the trial while the attorneys will be Howard Guthery, J. E. Williamson, Carter Patten and Alfred H. Donithen. The trial will be held in the art hall at the fairground.

FRENCH PACT PLANS HAVE BROKEN DOWN

Opposition Arises in Islands of St. Pierre To Aiding U. S.

Washington, Nov. 3—Negotiations for a "gentleman's agreement" with France, aimed at keeping the United States Government informed as to liquor shipments out of the Islands of St. Pierre, and the Miquelon group, French possessions south of Newfoundland, virtually have broken down, it was learned today.

While prohibition officials insisted that the matter still is under discussion, it was understood that France, as the result of the opposition in the islands, probably will not agree to assisting the United States in enforcement of its dry laws.

An arrangement similar to that made with Great Britain, for protection of this country from smugglers operating out of the Bahamas, Bimini and other islands off the southeastern coast has been sought by the government.

Prohibition officials said that a large percent of the liquor smuggled into the United States comes from the Canadian French possessions. It was stated that the people of these islands, formerly poverty-stricken fishermen, are enjoying an unprecedented period of prosperity as the result of American prohibition.

NEED OF REFORM IN LAW CITED BY TAFT

Present Criminal Practices Often Defeat Justice, He Avers

Washington, Nov. 3—The American legal system must be reformed immediately to "render new trials impossible except for real injustice" and to abolish the practice of selecting juries of weak intelligence, Chief Justice William Howard Taft of the United States Supreme Court declared here today in an address to the National Crime Commission.

Taft declared the present practices in criminal trials frequently led to a "defeat of justice."

Taft particularly stressed the need for reform in the method of selecting juries.

"The method of selection ought not to be such that counsel for the defendants, by exclusion of worthy citizens from the panel, keep jurors of weak intelligence, of little experience, and subject to emotions easily aroused," said Taft. "Exemptions from jury service ought to be cut down, and society ought to be able to obtain a jury that approaches the issues with a sense of its obligation to enforce the law without fear or favor, and with intelligence enough to learn from the judge what the law is and to weigh the evidence with reference to its violation. It is not an easy reform."

C. W. DAVIDSON ARRESTED ON SEPARATE CHARGES

Two affidavits, one charging him with having given a check for $5 without having sufficient money in the bank to meet it and the other with having sold a mortgaged automobile, were filed against Carol W. Davidson in municipal court yesterday afternoon.

Davidson was arrested this morning and was later released when arrangements were made to settle. The charge of giving a worthless check was filed by E. C. King and the affidavit charging him with having sold a mortgaged automobile was filed by James M. Barringer, of the Marion Chattel Loan Co. According to the affidavit, Davidson gave a mortgage on the car to secure a claim for $60 and when all but $9 of the amount had been paid, he sold the car.

NICARAGUAN FORCE FIGHTS U. S. MARINES

60 Members of "Bandit" Ranks Killed and Wounded in Clash

Washington, Nov. 3—Approximately 60 Nicaraguans, characterized by the state department as "bandits" were killed and wounded in a sharp battle with a mixed force of U. S. Marines and native constabulary, according to a message received at the state department today from Dana Munro, American charge d'affairs at Managua.

One marine was wounded and two of the native constabulary were killed.

The engagement took place six miles south of Jicaro on Tuesday.

The American forces were commanded by First Lieut. Moses Gould and Second Lieut. Clarence J. Chapelle.

The Nicaraguan force consisted of about 250 rifles, and the engagement lasted for some time.

COMMUNITY MEET

Interesting Program Presented at Silver Street Club Session

An interesting program was presented by the pupils at the first meeting of the year for members of the Silver Street Community Club yesterday afternoon in the school building. During the business session it was planned to hold a social some time during this month.

The program hour opened with a song, "America," followed by devotionals by Rev. J. M. Fisher, pastor of the Lee Street Presbyterian Church. Miss Dorothy Fisher entertained with a piano solo, "Romance In A Flat," and pupils of the Seventh Grade sang two chorus numbers, "The Clang of the Forge," and "The Song of the Gondoliers." A play, "In Flanders Field," was presented by pupils of the Seventh and Eighth Grades and Mrs. Loring K. Warner gave an interesting talk on nutrition work which is being carried on the schools. About 40 new members were enrolled in the membership drive which followed the program hour. Boys Scouts assisted in directing the guests through the building and also during the social hour.

The car was not damaged and it is the belief of the police that the car was taken by joyriders, who abandoned the machine at the rear of the King home after they had finished their ride.

DONAHEY ASSERTS OHIO NEEDS INFERIOR COURTS

Columbus, Nov. 3—"I believe that Ohio should have a system of inferior courts, but I did not say that I believe the people should approve the Marshall Bill," said Gov. Vic Donahey today. "In my opinion, it is the business of the people of Ohio to decide what they should have," the governor declared.

Donahey's remarks related to a statement, issued by officials of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, in which claim was made that the governor told a representative of the league that he (Donahey) opposes the fee system, but believed the Marshall Bill should be approved because "the system provided by the Marshall Bill is an improvement over the old system abolished by the United States Supreme Court."

"Improved My Skin in a Short Time!"

Realizing the problem of women generally in beautifying and protecting their skin, radiant Iris Gray, Paramount Junior Star of Wichita, Kansas, tells how Black and White Beauty Creations helped her solve that problem.

"Due to the large amount of cream and powder it is necessary for me to use in my stage and picture work," says Miss Gray, "I found it necessary to purchase the various theatrical preparations. They made my skin dry and chapped. Then I began using Black and White Cold Cream and in a short time my skin returned to its former smoothness."

You, too, will be delighted to see your skin improve with the aid of the soothing, nourishing and softening Black and White Cold Cream. Like the other Black and White Beauty Creations, it is of a quality acceptable to those who seek the best, at prices within the reach of all.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha has been unanimously reelected president of Turkey by the members of the national assembly. Aha! He probably stupified them with that seven-day speech!

An Englishman has invented a machine which will bake a potato in sixty seconds and a steak in thirty. If the cost is not prohibitive, it's possible that the faithful can-opener may yet be supplanted.

Paul Poiret, famous French dress maker, says the knees of American girls aren't pretty. Well, Paul, knees can be hidden, but even your genius can not conceal the size of French girls' feet.

A New York salesman was robbed by hold-up men of $70,000 worth of diamonds which he was showing to a jeweler in Chicago. Showing $70,000 worth of diamonds in Chicago! And yet New Yorkers so often speak of "hicks."

The coming marriage of the sixty-one-year-old sister of the former Kaiser and that twenty-seven-year-old Russian rather goes to refute the old one about there being no fool like an old fool.

Fifty-five per cent. of the first-class passengers and forty-five per cent. of the officers of the Mafalda were lost, but only sixteen per cent. of the crew. It might have been far better had the story of drunkenness among members of the crew gone uncontradicted.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair intimates that a lot of employes of his department are lazy and that he proposes to pry them loose from their desks in Washington and put them at work "in the field." Was ever more heartlessness shown for the feelings of the patriots?

Don't tell us that the French lack initiative. One of them was arrested in Paris, a few days ago, for selling minute souvenir strips from a "morsel of cloth he had purloined off the fuselage of Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis," at from one to 500 francs a strip. And when the police searched his room, they found 160 feet of perfectly new aeroplane cloth.

The Spirit of Thrift.

Realization of the thrift of our community was brought home to us as never before by the announcement in our issue of Wednesday that, of the date of October 31, the deposits in the six local banks and the five building and loan associations of the city aggregate $16,270,479.05, of which bank deposits represent $6,420,348.08 and building and loan the balance of $9,850,130.97.

During the year ended on the date mentioned, there was the enormous increase of $1,367,079.13 in the deposits of our eleven financial institutions, all of which save $165,291.13 being in building and loan deposits, but we were not so much impressed by these increases as we were by the grand aggregate they helped to make. Nor were we surprised that the increase in building and loan deposits so greatly exceeded increase in the deposits in banks. The same factor which explains the remarkable increase in total deposits explains as well why the bulk of the deposits increase went to the building and loan associations. The sale to outside interests of two of our big local institutions brought an immense amount of outside capital into the community and those receiving it in exchange for their stock naturally wanted to invest it that it might resume working for them to good advantage as speedily as possible, and these reinvestments are no doubt in part represented by the great increase in the building and loan deposits.

But it is reasonable to assume that, regardless of the shifting of the two stock ownerships referred to, our building and loan associations would have shown the same normal increase in deposits as of old, one may say, in much the same proportion to the bank increase as the greater deposits of the building and loan companies bear to the deposits of the banks, and so long as our financial institutions continue to show such normal increases we may rest assured that the wealth of the community is not receding and that our people have not lost the spirit of thrift.

Good Cause for Thanksgiving.

The president has set apart and designated Thursday, November 24, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and in his proclamation he recommends and urges that on that day "our people lay aside their customary tasks and, by the family fireside and in their accustomed places of worship, give thanks to Him who holds all within the hollow of His hand."

The president does not withhold mention of disasters, which during the year were suffered by some sections of our land. Instead he uses them to show how the sympathetic heart of the nation has been touched and responded generously out of its abundance, suggesting that "in continuing to remember those in affliction we should rejoice in our ability to give them relief."

"Not only have we enjoyed material success," the president points out, "but we have advanced in wisdom and in spiritual understanding. The products of our fields and our factories and of our manifold activities have been maintained on a high level. We have gained in knowledge of the higher values of life. There has been advancement in our physical well-being. We have increased our desire for the things that minister to the mind and to the soul. We have raised the mental and moral standards of life."

And then, reciting that "we have had the blessings of peace and of honorable and friendly relations with our sister nations throughout the world," President Coolidge urges that "it is fitting that, as a nation and as individuals, in accordance with time-honored sacred custom, we should consider the manifold blessings granted to us" and pray that we may be worthy of a continuation of divine favor.

In this day and age when so many are inclined to look with foreboding to what may be in store for the hearts and souls of our people; when some imagine they foresee the passing of the church and the collapse of the Christian religion, it is good to have the head of a great nation utter that which the passing months have made more and more manifest: "We have increased our desire for the things that minister to the mind and to the soul. We have raised the mental and moral standards of life."

We sincerely thank the president for saying that.

National Prohibition Commissioner Doran says this year's Christmas liquor will be no worse than that of last year. Judging by what some of our friends have told us, we accept the commissioner's statement as decidedly conservative.

"If birth control only gave promise of reducing that sucker rate of one-a-minute," suggests the Columbus Dispatch, "it might offer something to recommend it." Well, isn't that the very promise it offers?

Big Bill Thompson is now informed that the Chicago public library is not under his direction, but that of its board of directors. Looks as though Bill will have to get rid of some directors before proceeding to burn such volumes as may be suspected of complicity in the plot of King George to rule America.

The Thought Behind the Saving.

Some days ago we read in our news columns that a new mark would be set by the Christmas savings accounts this year, the estimated total being $133,000.

That's an awful lot of money to be saved for Christmas, when the most popular accounts are, as the item stated, the one-dollar and two-dollar classes. But when 3,625 persons start saving, even though the weekly individual deposits are but a dollar or two, the sum total toward the close of the year is bound to be a bit surprising.

But we are not so much impressed by the aggregate result as we are by the fact that 3,625 of our people have been making weekly deposits to have at hand when the glad holiday approaches a special Christmas fund—a fund with which to add to the Christmas cheer and happiness of their loved ones. It's the motive behind the saving which more appeals to us than the saving itself—the desire to give joy and happiness to others.

And still the pessimists tell us there isn't any Santa Claus!

"I see where 303,552 gallons of pre-war beer and ale worth at pre-prohibition prices $1,000,000 were turned into the sewers of New York the other day," observed the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today. "Oh, law! What crimes are committed in thy name!"

Apropos of the denial of that story about her having eloped, who knows but what Ileana is still thinking of the gallant young cadet who poured a bucket of water down her neck, that time she fainted away?

One might imagine from some of the comments on the change in form shown by the Ohio State eleven following the criticism of Mr. Wilce that those making them labor under the delusion that the coach constitutes the entire team.

It is estimated that the loss of output on the old model and the conversion of his plant to the production of the new has cost Henry Ford and his associates $240,000,000. It's awful to think of the jumping we true aristocrats of the land will have to do before Mr. Ford is recompensed for an expenditure like that.

Vagrant Verse.

THRALDOM.

Master at forty-odd, he left the sea
And bought, beside the bay, a fruitful farm—
After long years of strife a life of calm
Allured him—placid fields' fertility.
And there he dwelt in comfort through the fall,
Tending his homestead, felling forest trees
To feed the cheery hearth where, at his ease,
Evenings he dozed, chair tilted to the wall.
The spring, and plowing. As he watched the share
Clearing the dull brown glebe, he mused, "A wake—
Just as a vessel's bows new seas might break...."
Stopped, rapt—put all in wond'ring neighbors' care—
Packed gear—strode miles to town—an owner sought—
And joined—third mate—a coaster drab and squat!

THE COMING OF THE WHITE MAN.

Plain, Simple Food Is Best.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

An Indiana lady asks for a "write-up" about indigestion, some of its causes and what is meant by "plain, simple food."

Foods which are not plain and simple, from my standpoint, are the expensive dishes served in night-clubs and "high-toned" restaurants. Mind you! I have no objection to these meals, provided they are taken when you are honestly hungry and really need heavy food.

If you have a good-sized evening meal, why should you need "lobster Newburg," "Welsh rarebit," "golden buck," "waffles and maple syrup," "club sandwich," or any other heavy and rich mixture? You don't need it any more than a cat needs two tails. It wouldn't be "plain, simple food" anyhow.

I have no objection to any one of these dishes taken in moderation, at the proper time, by a person equipped to digest it. Much depends on the individual.

Not so very long ago I told a high personage that sausage, buck-wheat cakes and maple syrup make a proper mixture for a hard-working farm hand, but that it is impossible for a man leading a sedentary life. The man sitting at a desk and doing no manual or strenuous physical labor can not make proper use of such rich foods. Certainly they are not "plain and simple foods."

Rich gravies, highly-seasoned sauces, sweet-breads, fried pork, sauer-kraut and fat meats can not be called plain and simple. They are not good for dyspeptics of indigestion.

What do I mean by plain and simple food?

Let us begin with breakfast: Fruit in some form is desirable. The breakfast foods made of whole grain, served with small quantities of sugar and whole milk, rather than cream, are correct. Eggs in some form, preferably coddled, poached or soft boiled, are excellent. Toast and, if there is a longing for something sweet, a little honey, are proper additions.

Thin soup, fruit or vegetable salad, beef steak or roast beef, potatoes, except fried potatoes, another vegetable, and a single dessert will make a good mid-day dinner or an evening dinner.

The "lunch" or "tea" should be simpler.

The meat can be varied and occasionally fresh fish or poultry, except fried, can be substituted. But I do not approve of giving the dyspeptic two kinds of meat at the one meal.

Over-eating is a common cause for indigestion. Bolting the food, without chewing it and mixing it with the saliva, is the first step in the development of indigestion.

The taking of fat foods, the omission of an abundance of exercise and drinking water, and the failure to respond to the calls of nature, are causes of constipation. Then comes the intestinal fermentation and poisoning of the system, so common in indigestion.

I need not mention abscessed teeth, fussy gums and bad tonsils. These are everywhere recognized as factors in indigestion.

I hope my Indiana friend will feel I have tried to answer her kind letter.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

A. M. F. Q.—What causes my head to ache in back of my neck?

2.—What should a girl weigh who is seventeen years old and five feet six inches tall?

A.—Very often this is caused by indigestion. Correct your diet. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—For her age and height she should weigh about 125 pounds.

• • •

H. B. Q.—How can I get rid of pimples and blackheads?

A.—Correct the diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Almost always constipation or at least sluggish bowel movements are present. Eat bran muffins and drink plenty of water as aids to relieve congestion. For full details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

T. J. M. Q.—What will help sore throat and tonsilitis?

A.—Have the tonsils examined first of all; if they are diseased they should be removed.—Copyright, 1927.

Editorial Comment.

IMPERIALISM'S GADFLY.

Had the former German emperor been able to gratify his inclinations with reference to Maximilian Harden the distinguished publicist, doubtless, would long before this time have been gathered unto his fathers.

Harden was one of the greatest publicists of his times. His aggressiveness and dauntless courage cowed even the imperial will of the last of the Hohenzollerns. He was, in very truth, the persistent, stinging gadfly of German imperialism. He recognized no lese majeste. He was intensely a patriot. He knew his people better than the Kaiser knew them. He led them to wider empery of thought. To the Kaiser he was a veritable reincarnated Nathan, when he said, with calm, prophetic finality, "Thou art the man."

And he never receded from this position. He lived to see a corrupt court cleaned of a shrieking moral leprosy and the emperor a frightened fugitive from the feared wrath of his own people.

Harden was a powerful factor in bringing about the establishment of the republic, and he steadfastly maintained that Germany was guilty of having started the war.

The death of this man is a severe loss to the nation he loved and much assisted to save. He was brilliant, resourceful, an acute student of international affairs, uncompromising when he had satisfied himself of the righteousness of his convictions.

If the former Kaiser is destined to live in history it will be, perhaps, chiefly because Harden declared him to be the evil genius of his country and proved the truth of his fearless declaration.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MORE RIGID CONTROL.

The American Bankers' association at its fifty-third annual convention last week gave serious consideration to means of preventing continued heavy failure of banking institutions. Data which that body had before it indicated that more than 3,000 banks had failed outright in the past six years and that a number of others had avoided failure by bank consolidations in which their liabilities were assumed.

The policy commission of the A. B. A. under the guidance of Professor Sprague, of Harvard, reported that the situation could be met in some degree by amendments to state and national banking regulations increasing the minimum capital of banking institutions. It was of the opinion, however, that more could be accomplished by regulations limiting the number of bank charters granted in growing communities where the demand for banking facilities is still increasing.

Under the national banking act it is necessary to show need of the new bank for which its incorporators seek a charter, but that provision of the act has not been rigidly enforced. In many of the states, particularly in those in which failures have been frequent, no such regulations exist, and as a consequence promoters at the close of the war organized new banks without regard to the need for them, with results which are now apparent.

Whatever else may be done, the business of new bank organization should be removed from the field of professional promotion. Without that incentive new banks will be organized only as there is a legitimate demand for them.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Human Maze.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

More interesting in many ways than his defense of the Darwinian idea of man's ape-relationship is Professor Arthur Keith's account in his celebrated address to the British association, of the astonishing complexity of related forms that marks the evolution of human kind. It is not unimportant to note that in the Biblical story of man's early career, there shine dimly forth, out of the obscurity surrounding Adam, after his expulsion from Paradise, various indications and hints of the existence in the world at that time of human races that had never been included in the Edenic scheme.

That these should have been real men and women, treating, on a purely human footing, with Adam's own descendants, and even intermarrying with them, is a mystery for the Fundamentalists to clear up. What was the Land of Nod, and whence came its inhabitants? If this question had to be answered by the Darwinians they would be at no loss for suggestive information on the subject.

They have evidence that the world, perhaps a million years before the date ascribed to the Garden of Eden tragedy, was inhabited by early human races, which had already had time to become widely differentiated.

Read this passage from Professor Keith's address, in which he made no attempt to conceal any early mistakes of the evolutionists:

"Our older and discarded conception of man's transformation was depicted in that well-known diagram which showed a single file of skeletons, the gibbon at one end and man at the other."

(All attendants at popular lectures will remember that suggestive file—I used to use it myself.)

"In our original simplicity we expected, as we traced man backwards in time, that we should encounter a graded series of fossil forms—a series which would carry him in a straight line toward an anthropoid ancestor.

"We should never have made this initial mistake if we had remembered the the guide of the world of the past is the world of the present. In our time man is represented not by one, but my man and diverse races—black, brown, yellow and white; some of these are rapidly expanding, others are as rapidly disappearing. Our searches have shown that in remote times the world was peopled, sparsely it is true, with races showing even a greater diversity than those of today, and that already the same process of replacement was at work. To unravel man's pedigree we have to thread our way not along the links of a chain, but through the meshes of a complicated network."

Further on, in what is probably the most really thoughtful utterance on the human evolution subject that has been heard since the recent controversy opened, Professor Keith points out that evolutionists made a correlative oversight of neglecting to notice the fact that the diversity in form of early anthropoid animals would naturally be as great as that found today between the gorilla, chimpanzee and orang, and that these different forms would be confined, as are those of today, to limited areas on the earth's surface. It is amidst this maze that the evolutionist has to search for the origin of the human stem.

"As we go backward in time," says Keith, "we discover that mankind becomes broken up, not into separate races as in the world of today, but into numerous and separate species. When we got into a still more remote past they become so unlike that we have to regard them not as belonging to separate species, but to different genera. It is amongst this welter of extinct fossil forms which strew the ancient world that we have to trace the zigzag line of man's descent." — Copyright, 1927.

New York Day, by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Nov. 3—There are few patrons of vaudeville who did not have a bowing acquaintance with Murray Roe, the head usher at the Palace theater. He had the unobtrusive and dignified manner altogether out of keeping with the role he played in life.

He was one of those figures a great city shunts to the backwaters of life—and forgets. And when we who write of such things tell of such things without giving names we are chided as romancers. Roe's life story became public because he was found dead in Central park.

He was the son of E. P. Roe, famous as a novelist and preacher. In early life he received all the educational advantages and was an accomplished civil engineer and was one of the designers of the Riverside Drive aqueduct. He once moved in the upper circles of high society.

His dinners were talked-of events in the day. Broadway and its hangers-on were at his feet. His income was around $75,000 a year. When he married, New York's "400" attended. It was a first-page event. The marriage later went on the rocks.

Roe was not a high-flyer. Somehow or other he drifted out of the world that knew him well. Fourteen years ago he became an usher at the Palace. His ability was quickly recognized that in a few weeks he was head usher. He spurned all offers to take higher posts. Nobody knew why.

Night after night at the theater door he scanned the coupons of those who had known him "when." His attitude was obliging and slightly servile. He ignored all efforts to establish intimacy. Few knew where he lived and how he spent his time off duty.

New York has hundreds of Murray Roes who remain to the end human enigmas. Sometimes they are night cashiers in hurry-up restaurants or night watchmen patroling lonely beats. They seem to ask nothing of life but to be left alone with their frozen dreams.

• • •

It is our belief there are many men and women, too, who achieve success and find there is no much much to it. There are those who care nothing for the applause. They are happy to lead their lives in their own way—and when they drift. And a conventional world gives them a pity they do not ask.

A story is going the rounds of a careless wife—at least careless with her afternoons—who was having tea in a cafe with an admirer. Suddenly her husband loomed in the doorway and started toward her table. She was in a flutter and whispered to her admirer to think of some way to rescue her from the dilema. A bright idea struck him. "I have it," he whispered. "When he reaches the table we will pretend to be ignoring each other."

The radio keeps so many people home it is now blamed for the poorest season in the history of street carnival shows. The carnival showmen are back in town for the winter thoroughly disheartened. Out of 150 starting out from New York last spring it is reported only twenty made expenses or over.

• • •

Carnival people, between seasons, live in a jostling section on Tenth avenue. They are birds of a feather flocking together. Contrary to opinion, the majority are thrifty. Many carnival men sell gim-cracks along New York curbs during the winter months and the same "spiels" that incite crossroads yokels to unsnap their purses works in Manhattan.

• • •

Those who know say the most difficult salesmanship of all is to round up the catch-penny trade and make it buy. There is a carnival salesman who used to sell canes from a shoulder pack. He was picked up by the president of a mail order company and now at a mahogany desk surrounded by secretaries. He is the eminently successful sales manager of the company.

The Devil's Golf Course.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Such is the fearsome nickname given to that part of Death valley, in California, where vast beds of salt are the natural roadway. And it has well earned its awesome title, for if not the most forbidding spot in the world, it has certainly no equal in America.

For miles around, further than eyes can reach, only salt can be seen. There is one bed in Death valley covering several square miles that, it is estimated, would supply the entire world with salt for a year. Literally millions of tons cover this barren area. After the rain, this spot presents a weird sight. The salt dissolves until the whole countryside is as level as a ball-room floor. As the water evaporates, however, salt pinnacles rise above the surface in strange shapes, some reaching the height of nearly six feet.

The only road across this wasteland is a narrow strip of land, two miles long. Because of the terrible heat, it has never been possible to widen this passageway, or, indeed, to commercialize this resource in any way. For, in the summer time, the thermometer exceeds 130 degrees, and it is literally impossible for human beings to exist there for any time whatsoever. It would, probably, therefore, cost far more than the salt were worth, to try to market the commodity, although there will undoubtedly be a time when man will be able to devise a means by which this necessary luxury may be taken from its terrible storage place.

It is believed that Death valley contains, not only the salt, but also borax, talc, silica, and other valuable deposits. However, until some means are discovered by which the terrible hardships may be overcome, these must remain blind resources.—Copyright, 1927.

A Good Investment for Your Home

Kroehler frames are of carefully selected, kiln-dried hardwood with glued and doweled joints—not soft wood merely nailed together. Resilient, non-sagging seat springs interlocked with a flexible steel understructure firmly attached to the hardwood frame far outlast the old-style webbing construction which must be repaired every few years. Kroehler furniture keeps its shape permanently. Tremendous production capacity and scientific methods have enabled Kroehler to produce the finest living room furniture at a remarkably low cost.

Pay Only $25 Down On Any Kroehler Now

Pay the balance week to week or month to month as you prefer—ten long months to pay it. We'll bring your new Kroehler out right away and you'll be proud of it—all the folks at home will be proud and happy and smile because it's a Kroehler.

Trade in Your Old Pieces On a Brand New Kroehler

We'll take it, no matter how old and worn out—it will help reduce the cost of your new Kroehler. We'll give you more than you would pay for it yourself and we'll also give you the best suite in the whole world for it—that'll be a Kroehler.

Come in Tomorrow Morning and Choose Your New Kroehler

When the folks at home see the Kroehler Name Plate—when your friends learn that it's a Kroehler—won't they be pleased—won't they admire. Everybody knows when you say "It's a Kroehler" that it's the best in the world. Has to be—because there's a Million Dollar guarantee behind every Kroehler.

IN-AS-MUCH CIRCLE

King's Daughters Meet with Miss Alice Sneckenberger

Final arrangements were made for making Oriental creams at Epworth M. E. Church Nov. 9 at the meeting of members of In-as-much Circle, King's Daughters, last night at the home of Miss Alice Sneckenberger, N. State-st. Plans were also made for a chrysanthemum and bazaar show at Blakes' Florist Shop, W. Center-st, Nov. 11 and for a work meeting at the church, Nov. 17. Reports on the state K. D. convention held here recently were given.

Twenty-seven members responded to roll call with thoughts on "Giving," after which Mrs. Gertrude Myers conducted the devotional service. An interesting paper on "The Grace of Giving" was given by Mrs. Ferne West. Judge L. B. McNeal was heard in several delightful flute solos, "Waltz Caprice," Charles Howe, "Songs Without Words," Terschak and "Simple Aveu," Thome. Mrs. Lorene Ferry played his accompaniment at the piano.

GUILD MEETING

Mrs. P. W. Kerr Hostess to St. Paul's Episcopal Group

Plans were made for giving a church supper Dec. 8 in the parish house, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, at the meeting of members of St. Rita Guild last night at the home of Mrs. P. W. Kerr, Chicago-av. Arrangements were also made for co-operating with the Daughters of Grace and Woman's Auxiliary in giving the Christmas bazaar. Mrs. Fred Haberman, Jr., chairman of the social committeee, is in charge of arrangements for the supper and Mrs. W. E. Orcutt of a candy booth to be held at the bazaar. A nominating committee was selected.

A splendid review of Bruce Barton's "The Book Nobody Knows" was given by Miss Una Ackley and during the devotional service a paper on "Sacramento of the Church," prepared by Miss Frances Jennings, was given by Miss Virginia Cobbold. Luncheon was served by Mrs. Kerr and the assistant hostesses, Misses Una Ackley and Leila Snyder. About 15 member were present.

Plans were made for election of officers at the next regular meeting Dec. 7 at the George Frank home, 490 E. Church-st, when Mrs. T. H. Sutherland, and the Misses Catherine Storaci and Sarah Irvin will entertain.

Barbers Say Bobbed Hair Will Stay Because of Youthful Effect

HAIR, bobbed or long?

That question, which has caused endless discussion among young and old throughout the length and breadth of this country, still is one of the favorite topics of conversation whenever Marion members of the gentler sex get together.

Marion beauty experts and barbers generally are convinced that short tresses will continue as the chief mode. In this they are supported by a majority. A small minority, having bowed to fashion's decree, are letting their hair grow again. A few others have dodged the barber shops and beauty salons in a vain attempt to return to the list of long-haired misses.

Local barbers say styles of hair dress will continue to change, but these changes, they say, will be simply variations of bobbed fashions.

Sums Up Reasons

Those who elect to wear their hair short sum up their reasons as follows:

Short hair makes woman look younger, smaller hats can be worn with a chic effect, it is less troublesome to arrange and consequently saves time, it lends neatness to appearance and however mussed never looks "frouzy." (That last expression is one that has been coined by fonsorial experts in describing the disadvantages of long hair.)

On the other hand the long-hair advocates, mostly dads and husbands, say:

Long hair is less expensive; it lends dignity and charm, it differentiates the matron from the flapper and is decidedly more feminine. And thus the controversy rages.

One local barber has decided the question this way:

"Any style that has become universally accepted and tends to make woman look younger will continue, as that is the ultimate end of all fashion."

Woman, as woman will, is constantly on the alert for the most efficient means by which to command the homage and admiration of the opposite sex, beauty experts say. That man clings to the feminine for the feminine, milady is becoming more and more aware, and is seeking accordingly to combine the "womanly grace" of long hair with the comfort of short, in a daintily-arranged bob.

"Cut the hair, but cut it so that the lines and curves of the head express femininity and womanly charm," say Parisian hair-cutters. If you're tired of your bob, as in the old days when you re-arranged your long hair, look for a new means of arranging the bob. Cling to what is becoming to your own particular face, but look for the new and original in hair-cuts as you do in dress, barbers advise. One authority gives the following rules for hair-dress, "arrange the hair low on the brow to shadow the eyes if your face is long, higher if your face is short and broad. If your hair is short and thick, or wavy, a low V cut at the back of the neck is usually becoming."

However, for the few who persist in allowing their hair to grow long this advice is given—avoid the clumsy stage of hair-growing by permitting the side hair to grow while the hair at the back is cut off, or, if you're having your hair cut for the first time, don't be afraid to have it cut short enough and in the extreme style your barber may recommend. It'll no doubt be a great change but the most becoming after all.

HERE'S GOOD RECIPE FROM MRS. THURN

PUMPKIN PIE

1 cup pumpkin
¾ cup sugar.
½ teaspoon ginger.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
1 level teaspoon flour.
3 eggs, beaten separately.
1 pinch salt.
A little nutmeg.
1 pint milk.

Mix dry ingredients. Add to pumpkin and yolks of eggs, then add the milk. Beat whites stiff and add last. Bake one hour.

SPONGE CAKE

5 eggs, separately beaten.
1½ pounds sugar.
8 tablespoons boiling water.
1½ cups flour.
½ teaspoon baking powder.
Vanilla.

Beat yolks well; add sifted sugar, add boiling water, sifted flour, baking powder, flavoring. Fold in beaten whites. Bake in an ungreased tube pan for 45 to 50 minutes.

Toughest of Old Hang-On Coughs Go

Why send a boy to do man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent dovelishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the realest destroyer of tough old coughs is Bronchuline.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Bradley's Drug Store or any wideawake druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and a couple of teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough.—Adv.

More Than 1,000 Attend Opening of High School Course At Auditorium

One of Largest Audiences in History of Lecture Program Series Enjoys Comedy Play in Three Acts; Unusually Well Received

More than 1,000 persons were in attendance at the opening lecture course, sponsored by seniors of Harding High School, last night at the Star Auditorium. The crowd was one of the largest ever in attendance at a lecture course program here.

A comedy play in three acts, "The Family Upstairs" was cleverly presented as the first number of the lecture course series, by a splendid cast featuring Noah Beilharz as "Pa Heller."

The play was unusally well-received by the audience.

Outstanding Character

An outstanding character role was that, of Martha MacDonald as "Ma" Heller, ever nagging, scolding, complaining but meaning all the while the best for the family she dearly loves It is she, who "with the best intentions" for her unmarried daughter, strives to encourage a union with a young man her daughter is already secretly engaged to, and consequently causes complications which furnish the plot for the story, humor and a little pathos as well.

Noah Beilharz as "Pa" Heller is the most cleverly enacted role of the play. The principal victim of all the family squabbles, "Pa" Heller goes along in his own meek way until disaster threatens his loved family, and then with characteristic regard, turns peacemaker and brings about a reconciliation and happy ending. Mr. Beilharz was formerly a character actor of the legitimate stage but has in recent years devoted his entire time to individual dramatic work. He is one of the leading American "type" artists and impersonators and was seen at his best in last night's performance.

Other Characters

James Stone as Willie, the lazy son, is a typical boy and unamanageable little brother to Pearl Gray as Louise, the elder daughter. Quite as appreciated were Robey Chanson in the role of Annabelle, the younger daughter, and Fran Heyser as Charles Grant, "Louise's young man." The action takes place in the parlor of the Heller's humble home.

The second of the series of lecture course numbers is scheduled for Dec. 7 when Lura Forbes, reader and impersonator, will appear in her "Main Street Smile" program.

SERMON SERIES TO BE GIVEN IN NOVEMBER

"Jesus Christ in the Light of Today" is the subject of a series of sermons to be preached by Rev. James M. Fisher at Lee Street Presbyterian Church during the month of November, it was announced today.

An introductory sermon will be given Sunday, Nov. 6, "Jesus Christ as Your Prophet," Nov. 13; "Jesus Christ as Your Priest," Nov. 20; "Jesus Christ as Your King," Nov. 27. Services will begin at 7 p. m., closing at 8.

Care of Babies

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. And it is so pleasant to take. Taste it yourself, and you'll know why "Children Cry for It."

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or when you even suspect the approach of constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. See how quickly all fretfulness or wakefulness will cease!

Only one word of warning: the above advice is true of genuine Castoria.* The kind called Fletcher's, bearing Fletcher's signature is genuine—and does not contain opiates or any other drug that can harm your baby. Other preparations may be just as free from harm; the writer does not know as to that, but does know one family whose children will never make the experiment!

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

CHAPTER XLIV

"I DIDN'T come out here to sing the blues," John said, with a serious half-smile. "But when Millie said your business wasn't as good as you expected it to be, I had an idea you might start work again. And this time I didn't want to lose you, so I thought I'd get my offer in first."

"Offer!" echoed Sally, flushed and wide-eyed above the lilac dress that brought out the beauty of her deep, blue eyes.

John nodded. "I'd start you out at $150 a month in my office," he answered quietly, and Sally shook her head.

"No. I'll stick to this until it fails or until we make a go of it," she said firmly. She looked squarely at John Nye, and his eyes held hers like a magnet.

It was at this moment that an unseen door slammed somewhere in the back of the house, and shuffling steps came slowly across the wide hall.

Mrs. Jerome stood in the doorway, her arms full of Sunday papers and magazines, her large form encased in the tight gray silk dress that she wore on Sunday afternoons. A tell-tale cake crumb was in one corner of her mouth.

She frowned at Sally, shook her head, and then gave John the most beaming smile Sally had ever seen upon her face.

"Oh, Mr. Nye!" she twittered. "I'll tell Millie you're here!" And with another frown at Sally she turned and went paddling upstairs.

In a moment her voice came floating down from t he prpucoorfl gegvbgkqw Sal-lee-ee! I want you!"

She was standing in the middle of the hall when Sally ran up to her, still holding her papers clasped to her bosom.

"Millie wants you to powder her neck and back of her," she said, and followed Sally into the middle bedroom where Millie held forth among her perfume bottles and boudoir pillows. Millie's room always looked like a cross between a junk shop and a fancy powder box.

She was sitting up in bed, yawning and blinking now.

"What did you wake me up for?" she demanded of her mother. "I was up so late last night—"

"I told you Mr. Nye is down stairs!" said Mrs. Jerome, importantly. She said it in the same awed voice in which she might have announced that the Archbishop of Canterbury had come to pay them all a visit.

Then she turned upon Solly. "You might have told your sister that Mr. Nye was here!" she said severely. "You knew he was here to see her and not you, Sally! I declare, you're getting to be more like your Aunt Em every day of your life. Just taking the law into your own hands about everything—"

"Mother, I told him I'd call Millie, and he said he wanted to see me!" Sally broke in, indignantly. "He offered me a position in his office."

Mrs. Jerome let out a sniff that would have done credit to Aunt Eimly. "Well, that's a very queer thing!" said she, "for a man to come away out here in the country to offer you a job. . . . I wouldn't trust these rich young men too far, if I were you, girls. They don't have any honorable intentions towards you, make sure of that.

"Oh, Mother!" giggled Millie. "I've been running around with John Nye for months, and he's as harmless as a fly. You make me laugh"

Mrs. Jerome managed to looked wiser than an owl as the answered: "He may be as harmless as a fly, but I notice he's too clever for you, Millie."

Millie flushed. "What do you mean?"

"Why, you've been saying that he'd marry you in a minute if he could," explained her mother, her eyes narrowed above her fat cheeks. "But you know that isn't the truth! You know you telephoned him yourself the other night and asked him to take you for a drive. It's you who's been doing the chasing lately."

Millie flushed even more deeply. "Oh, he's just peeved at me because Davy Davidson came up into the office to see me a few times," she answered, sulkily, swinging her bare little feet over the side of the bed.

"Go on downstairs, Sally, and ask him to stay for supper," she said to her sister. "Set a table for him and me in the little dining room!"

When Sally went down stairs John Nye was standing in the little reception room, looking at Aunt Emily's collection of Toby jugs and Bristol glass.

"Beautiful old stuff," he remarked as he turned away from it. "I like to see you here in this old house. You belong here—not in an office."

If lightning had struck Sally she could not have been more speechless than she was for fully five minutes after he had said that.

With a dazed little smile she left him standing alone in the room, where the fragrance of the lilacs outside made the air sweet, and the leafy trees made green gloom.

A minute or two later, as she passed the door with a big tray in her hands, she saw him still standing there looking down into the green garden. He was so deep in thought that he did not even look up at her.

Presently he came to the door of the room where she was setting a little table. "Well, I must be off," he said. He was holding out his right hand and he had his hat in the other.

"Oh, no!" she cried. "I forgot. Millie told me I was to ask you to stay to supper. Please do. I want to show you how well I can cook. After those terrible drug store sandwiches that I used to bring you I think I owe you something decent to eat."

His face was serious. "I never enjoyed anthing more than those sandwiches" he said quietly. "It was those sandwiches—and all the other nice things that you did for me—that brought me here today. You made my work a lot easier down town than it ever was before, or than it has been since. I miss you."

Again came that foolish impulse of Sally's to cry. She struggled with it, but she could feel the warm tears in the back of her throat and in her eyes.

"Hey, you Sally!" called a loud voice in the other room, and she gave a start.

It was Ted Sloan's voice, and suddenly she remembered that he had been threatening all week to come out for Sunday night supper.

In an instant he was at the door and she was herself again, holding out her hand in welcome and smiling her swift, bright smile.

"Hello, Ted!" she cried warmly. But Ted did not answer her or touch the hand she held out to him.

A look of jealously and distrust flashed into his eyes as he looked from her to John Nye together there in the seclusion of the little private dining room, not 18 inches apart from each other.

"Hul-LO, Nye!" he said without a smile. And then he learned towards Sally and without warning, kissed her upon the mouth.

"Hello, Babe!" he said to her, but his gaze never left John Nye's face.

"See, that's how things are between us!" was what that steady gaze seemed to say, more plainly than any words could have said them.

Sick with anger and shame, Sally stood looking at him.

There was nothing she could do or say . . . She couldn't cry out to John Nye, and tell him that she didn't care a snap of her fingers for Ted Sloan, and that she hated him to kiss her—that he never had kissed her with her unspoken or spoken consent in all her life.

"After all, he probably doesn't care whether Ted kisses me or not. It's nothing to him," she said to herself, when she could begin to think clearly again.

All the same she hated to have him think that the exchange of kisses between herself and Ted Sloan was a habit of theirs.

"Well, so here you are!" Millie gay voice came from the outer room and her blond head shot around the door. "What are you all doing in here? Hello, Johnny, going to stay for supper?"

She came swaying into the room, all slenderness and curves, all perfume and color, all warmth and radiance and lure.

She walked straight up to John Nye, and stood just as close to him as she could, looking straight up into his eyes. It was a trick that she had learned from watching Greta Garbo on the screen, and Sally had seen her practice it in her own room dozens of times.

But John Nye was utterly indifferent to it and to her. His dark eyes were quite cold as she looked down at her.

"No, I can't stay tonight, Millie," he said, "I'm sorry."

He went.

Millie followed him as far as the brown car, and stood there talking to him for a minute or two. But he started the motor running as if he were in a hurry to be off, and after a bit Sally saw him raise his hat and wave. Then Millie came slowly up the steps and into the house.

"The big High-Hat!" she snapped, when she was inside the hall and closing the heavy oak door behind her. "Sore at me, I suppose, because I went out a couple of times with Davy Davidson!"

She came close to Sally, who was standing in the doorway of the dining room.

"When your Boy Friend's gone, I want to ask your advice about something," she said in a low tone, and went upstairs to go back to bed. She usually rested all day Sunday.

• • •

It was Ted Sloan who put the brilliant idea into Sally's head.

Sally had been telling him how poor business was in the House by the Side of the Road, and he himself had seen how few people came there that Sunday night.

"Your place lacks pep!" said Ted, who knew some of the rules of selling, picked up in his own business of selling automobiles. "Now, you take this place down the road, the Lark, as they call it—".

"Don't talk to me about that roadhouse!" groaned Sally. "They have a thousand dollars to spend where Aunt Em and I haven't a thousand pennies! They hired a couple of professional dancers lately, for instance. A couple of Spaniards who know the tango and the—"

"That's just what I'm driving at!" interrupted Ted. "All kidding aside, Sally, you're the best dancer I ever saw! If you'd do some exhibition dancing here, you'd draw the crowds. Not at first, but pretty soon people would hear about you. . . . Put on a sort of one-act show! That's the idea! And you could do it, all alone, and it wouldn't cost you a penny."

He was going, and Sally walked beside him out to where his car stood in the darkness of the driveway.

"Don't talk like a simp, Ted!" she said sharply. "You now I'm not good enough to dance in public."

"Not good enough!" There was a pause while he turned to look intently at her. In the moonlit darkness her skin was like cream satin, her eyes big and shadowy.

"You're beautiful," he said, his voice thick and husky, and suddenly, without warning, he kissed her again. Not the way he had in the afternoon, for John Nye's benefit, but with a certain hard impatience, bending her head back and taking her breath away.

"Now, don't get gay with that Nye gink!" he said when he had let her go. "Because I won't stand for it."

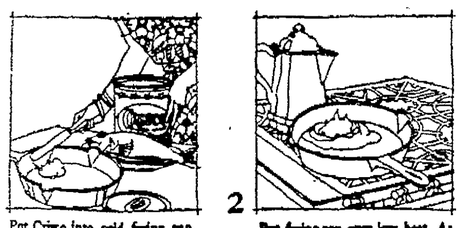
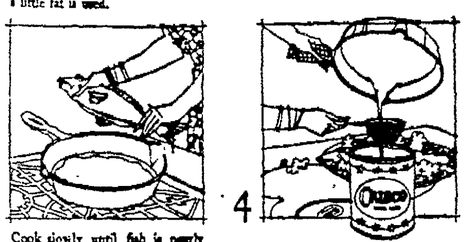
COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

To fry FISH without smoke or odor



1 Put Crisco into cold frying pan. To thoroughly cook the food (for example, a fish) without smoke or scorching, fry slowly, using enough Crisco to partly cover it. It will not require the constant attention frying does when only a little fat is used.

2 Put frying pan over low heat. As soon as Crisco is melted put in a small piece of bread. As soon as bread starts to brown put in the fish.



3 Cook slowly until fish is nearly done, then turn to brown the other side. With plenty of Crisco in the pan the fish is easily turned without breaking, if you wait until it is almost done.

4 Strain the Crisco into an empty can and use it for the next thing you want to fry. No one will know you have fried fish in it.

To test your cooking fat—taste it. Crisco's sweet flavor will astonish you.

"Crisco" is the trade mark for a superior shortening and frying fat manufactured and guaranteed purely vegetable by The Procter & Gamble Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Just Among Us Girls

Peter's Adventures

The Star's Daily Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE S. VINCENT

WHO GOES THERE?

IT was a very mournful boy, indeed, who sat on the gray moss clump in the moonlit clearing and rubbed a head that ached from the bump it had received. But it was a brave boy as well.

Peter bit his lip then he felt it begin to quiver and peered searchingly about him. After all 'twas only a dog that was howling so dismally. And a dog was nothing for a Two-Legs to be afraid of. Why, indeed, should a Two-Legs fear any creature of the Woods? Peter remembered he could speak to the woods folks in their own language, and he had met a lot of them and never had any trouble with them yet. Most of them were really fine fellows when one got acquainted.

Besides, there must be a short cut out of the Great Woods, and a fellow could find it if only he kept his head. Suddenly Peter thought of something else, and he jumped to his feet, waving his arms in his excitement.

"Whoopie!" cried Peter, his fear all gone. "I had almost forgotten the lizard's tail. No beast that flies or crawls or walks would hurt me while I have that bit of magic in my pocket."

"No, nor 'tis not likely that any of them would hurt you without it," remarked a voice in a squeak so like Batty's own that Peter thought the fellow must have relented and come back to help him.

"Hello, old chap!" cried the boy. "You are a good sort after all, Batty. I did think you were pretty mean to go off and leave me all alone. But I see now you were only teasing me. Tell me, do, which turn I shall take to get into the clover field that lies to the right of the old brown farmhouse by the brook? I am not afraid any more, but just the same I'd feel more comfortable if I was out of these shadows."

The welcome squeak had sounded very near his ear, and Peter had turned in its direction. No Batty there! The boy whirled around. No furry flier hovered over his head or flitted in the moonlight above him. But there on the ground at his feet hobbled a clumpsy shape. It was small and dark, and not at all like Batty, and it was half walking, half flopping straight toward the boy. Peter stepped back, startled.

"Who goes there?" demanded he.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

Tomorrow will be Friday, and I will be glad when it has come and went. It snowed a little last night, so I went to the closet under the stairs this morning when I had finished breakfast to look around for my skates, and I opened the door and was all bent over looking amongst a lot of old shoes and things when someone gave the door a kick and sent me on my sore nose, and I hollered and the door opened, and it was my father.

He had come in the bedroom and saw the door was open an didn't know I was in there so he hit it a kick and made me do a nose-dive. He said he was sorry, but he didn't look like he was. I had to tell him then how Feeble had busted my nose by the creek, and he laughed at me, but he gave me a nickel, and I got a nickel's worth of weenies and gave the skins to Jubilee, and the rest of the bunch was sore because they thought they ought to have been in on it.

So they went on to school, and me and Jubilee went over to see Miss Parmer and she asked me if I thought it was going to be a cold winter, and I told her it was. She wanted to know if I didn't want to tack down some oil cloth for her after school, and I said I did. She said she was about discouraged over not getting a husband, but she didn't look like she was because she was smiling and I told her that when I got grown up I would marry her. Then she kissed me, and I told her if she didn't stop that I wouldn't, and she said I would have to kiss her if I married her so then I told her I wouldn't marry her, because I don't like to kiss folks. She laughed and said I was trying to break her heart, but to not forget the oilcloth.

We all went there after school, and the oil-cloth was rolled up in a big roll, and I unrolled it a little ways and put the end in the corner and told Feeble to stand on it. She went and stood on it and Miss Parmer's big Persian was rubbing against her legs, and I got hold of both ends of the roll and gave it a quick jerk and Feeble's feet went up in the air and she came down on the cat so hard it squawked and went flat, and the next thing we knew it was on top of Feeble with all of its claws working like it was doing the black bottom, and when Miss Parmer opened the door to get the broom it went out with its tail as big around as a stove-pipe, and Feeble was a sight.

When she got her face fixed up I told her it would never again be the same, and she grinned and said it never had amounted to much anyhow and that she always depended on her shape for admirers. I got two-bits for tacking and I blew it on Youniss and Feeble. I'll never be rich.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary Tries to Be Brave

MARY HARRISON waited only for my door to close upon us before putting the excited question which I knew had been near her lips ever since Philip Veritzen's departure.

"Oh, Auntie Madge, did you ask him?" she queried, "What did he say? Will he see me? When?"

"Yes, to the first three questions, Mary," I told her, with a smile at her impetuous manner, "and he will see you Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock."

"Oh, what an eternity to wait!" she exclaimed, Then, at the expression in my face she threw herself upon me contritely.

"I'm so ashamed, Aunt Madge," she said. "I'm just a little beast to be so ungrateful, when you've taken so much pains for me."

"Your repentance is as unreasonable as your impatience," I told her laughingly. "Now let's forget about both. He's promised to see you Tuesday, and you'll have to content your soul until then."

"I know," she said meekly, then added hesitantly:

"Did he say anything about me when you told him, or don't you want to tell me?"

Swiftly I went over my brief colloquy with Mr. Veritzen. No there was nothing in the words which need cause Mary any uneasiness, and there was no compulsion upon me to reveal the grimness of his eyes and the sardonic smile which I had noted with forboding for the girl.

"Our conversation upon that point was very brief," I told her. "I said that you were anxious to see him for a few minutes and he answered that he was equally anxious to see you. He is coming to see me on another matter on Tuesday, and I suggested that he talk to you at the same time. He said that arrangement would suit him perfectly. Now you have the complete interview."

"H'm!" said Mary. "Sounds bad, his wanting to talk to me. But I can't help it if he does toss me out into the snow. I suppose I can earn my living somewhere."

I knew that the flippant comment covered real terror, but I knew also that the only help I could give her would be to follow her own line, so I answered carelessly:

"I don't think I'd worry about a snow bath for a while, Mary. There, those snaps on the shoulder are the ones I'm afraid of, this gown is so easily torn. Now if you'll help me off with it, please."

I lifted my arms and purposely made the task of getting off the filmy gown as long as possible. My ruse was successful. By the time she had drawn it off, hung it upon a hanger and put it in the closet, she had conquered her uneasiness.

But she was not ready to leave me I saw that, and I wondered from which particular angle she would approach the subject of young Noel Veritzen which I guessed was troubling her conscience a bit. But to my surprise when she spoke, it was not Noel's name which came from her lips.

"Look her, Auntie Madge," she said, her eyes sparkling with interest. "Did you hear the Lincoln dame tonight when Uncle Dicky proposed drawling her with that dog?"

Her tone and words betrayed more clearly than she knew the jealous rancor which she cherished toward our mysterious young neighbor. I wondered, not for the first time ,whether that rancor did not have its origin in a deeper regard for Noel Veritzen than either Mary or anyone else guessed.

ANOTHER ELECTION SOON FOR ENGLAND

Strength of Labor-Socialist Candidates Surprise; Lloyd George Big Figure

London, Nov. 3—Unexpected strength shown by the Labor-Socialist candidates in Tuesday's local elections, the increasing prestige of former Premier Lloyd George, leader of the Liberals, and the rocky legislative road which confronts the Baldwin Tory cabinet when parliament assembles next Tuesday led to predictions today that England will see another general election before many months have passed.

Chiefs of the Liberal party, upon being asked if David Lloyd George can "come back" to the height of his power, declare that he virtually is there already.

Ministry In Bad Way

Critics of Premier Baldwin's ministry claim it is in a bad way. They declare that 60 per cent of the England's farmers are on the verge of bankruptcy. Furthermore they charge that Winston Churchill has fallen down on his promise to decrease government expenditures $50,000,000 annually. Instead of doing this, they maintain, the chancellor of the exchequer is spending $200,000,000 more per year than when he took office.

The tory government will be called upon to tackle two thorny measures:

1—Reform of the house of lords.

2—Revision of the electoral laws giving the ballot to all women at the age of 21.

Lloyd George Outstanding

The Tory party is prepared to combat both measures vigorously. The suggestion has been made that the government resign and hold a general election upon the issue of the two measures, but so far there has been no decisive steps in that direction.

It is certain that Lloyd George will be the outstanding figure in commons during the forthcoming session of parliament and it is also certain that he will overlook no opportunity to embarrass the government.

To Advocate Reforms

Speaking in behalf of the Liberals, Lloyd George will advocate certain reforms dealing with the land and England's economic troubles.

Lord Rothermere, owner of the Daily Mail and other papers having a total circulation of about 6,000,000 daily, has come out as an ardent supporter of Lloyd George. The little Welshman is well prepared for a general election. The Liberal campaign chest is filled to overflowing with funds and the party can put 500 candidates in the field for the 615 parliamentary seats.

MIDDLE WEST FARMER ACHIEVES UNUSUAL RESULTS

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 3—Meet the "Burbank of the Middle West," Harvey J. Sconce!

On his 2,500-acre tract, near here, he has applied true science and common sense to dirt farming with amazing results.

And while he has been deriving big benefits in wealth and the satisfaction of achievement, nature and circumstance have added opportunities undreamed of in the way of making use of the "freak" products of his agricultural wizardry.

Develops New Corn

More than 20 years ago Sconce took ordinary field corn and pollonized the taller stalks with the taller, the short with the short. He tagged the resulting ears and planted them the next year. He repeated his process, year after year. Today he has developed two distinct types of corn.

The dwarf type attains a maximum height of five feet. It minimizes the danger from windstorms. It produces five ears to the stalk, which vastly increases production. And it matures six weeks earlier than ordinary corn, thus eliminating the corn growers' great menace of early frost.

On the other hand, the crossing of tall stalks with tall stalks resulted in a "Frankenstein" of the field. The stalks grow 18 feet high and produce only one or two ears each!

Rainbow "Roastin' Ears"

In his rainbow corn Sconce produced something beautiful to behold. Whole fields of otherwise drab stalks are tinted with colors in variations without number. Each stalk is a distinct species.

Systematic pollonization and tagging enables the experiment to continue each year with limitless color possibilities. Now, wholly without anticipation, an enormous demand has grown for "rainbow corn" from the householder who wishes to mix beauty with his appetite for "roastin' ears."

Recently a chemist went through one of the fields of "rainbow corn" out of curiosity. His attention was attracted to stalks of royal purple hue. He squeezed a stalk. The juice stained his fingers. The chemist now believes that the secret of a satisfactory royal purple dye, goal of scientists for centuries, may have been found. Experiments are being made in laboratories.

Achieves Many Results

With wheat, trees, shrubs, flowers, Sconce has achieved results equally as interesting, if not as remunerative. He spent nine years producing a type of oats which would give the biggest yield and the surest. He achieved his purpose. Then the "bottom fell out" of the price. He discontinued growing of oats, in spite of all the time and effort he had devoted.

On the Sconce farm, in a home set in a landscape of striking beauty, Harvey Sconce, without secretarial aid, maintains an elaborate system of records and plans.

His farm is divided into various sections and the sections into fields. All are numbered. He keeps a card index system on each field. It contains data on the kind of crop planted, the treatment accorded the soil, the yield per bushel, and the price received for the crop.

MAKES ANNUAL VISIT

Queen Maud of Norway has been criticized by some of her subjects for regularly spending the autumn months in England. But these yearly visits are really in redemption of a pledge that the then Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark gave to King Edward when he gave his consent to Prince Charles accepting the crown of the newly-created independent kingdom of Norway. It was then agreed that Queen Maud should visit her native land at least once a year.

PICNIC STARTS CAREER

It was a picnic which started Mrs. Louise Fennet on the career which has associated Southern cooking with her name. Returning to her home in Nashville after some years in New Orleans she baked a picnic ham Creole style, which was so much appreciated that she began to turn out plantation cooking as a business. Now the big oven in her New York City apartment produces ham and fruit cake which are especially sought by the Southern population of the metropolis.

MANNEQUIN PARADE

The "combined" mannequin parade is a novelty now interesting fashionable women in Paris and London. Instead of buying just gowns or hats, several different kinds of shops combine. As well as frocks from one place there are hats from another, jewelry from a third, handbags from a fourth, and shoes and stockings from still other firms.

DON'T LIKE MARRIAGE

Of the thousands of women who have passed through Oxford University during the last seven years, only one in 20 has since married.

Appetite gone—
then do this for me

All you need to do to get back that wonderful appetite is to build rich, red blood-cells with S.S.S. It's simple. Just try it, like thousands are doing every day. See for yourself what S.S.S. will do.

So much depends on your appetite—your strength and vitality—your position—our happiness.

Remember, how it used to be when you could hardly wait for mealtime? And then, sit down and eat several helpings of everything—enjoy every morsel and get up from the table feeling satisfied with the world, happy with everybody and ready for anything.

But what a difference in living when even the sight and smell of food sickens you! Never hungry—no matter how tempting the food is—nothing tasting right. And then, after nibbling at a few bites, feeling worse than ever.

Oh, life is hardly worth living this way. And yet all in the world the matter with you is that you are starving for rich, red blood. It is acknowledged everywhere that S.S.S. helps Nature build these healthy red blood-cells by the millions!

S.S.S. means blood with a punch—brimful of new life and energy. Get your S.S.S. at any good druggist. The larger size is more economical.

COUNTY BOARD MEETS TO VIEW PROPOSAL

Petition for Improvement of Drainage Channel Filed with Commissioners

Members of the board of county commissioners met today to view the route of a proposed branch of the Ququa ditch improvement, the largest county ditch improvement project scheduled here in the next 10 years.

Petition for the branch was filed several weeks ago by the Vernon Heights Realty Co. when the main ditch project came up for hearing before the county board. Should the branch be granted, it will probably be included in general plans and one contract let for the entire improvement.

The commissioners had planned to have work on the ditch started this year but this program was blocked when the project came up for its first hearing and claims for compensation and damages totalling approximately $35000 were filed. This amount is practically equal to estimated cost of the ditch as originally planned.

Final Hearing

At the final hearing, which will probably take place early in December, an effort will be made to settle the compensation and damage claims so that the contract can be let and work started early next year.

The Ququa ditch provides drainage for the southeast section of Marion and farm territory south of the city. City property in the district includes a part of the Vernon Heights addition, Marion Cemetery and the Harding Memorial grounds.

Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock the commissioners will meet to open bids on improvement of the Likens-Pole Lane-rd. The section of road to be improved extends through Marion, Claridon, Scott and Grand Prairie townships and cost of the work is estimated at $26,005.60.

Preliminary proceedings in connection with this project were temporarily blocked several weeks ago when two property owners filed an injunction suit, claiming that land was to be appropriated for widening of the road without adequate compensation. The case was decided in favor of the county commissioners when it came up for hearing in common pleas court.

So much more vigor

—when the system is cleansed of poisons we all have

DO you know that poisons form all the time in your system? They get into the blood stream and so rob you of the vigor, life, youth and energy you should have. Hardly anyone escapes them. Food wastes accumulate and fermentation takes place. As many as 36 of these ever-forming poisons are already known to science.

But nature has provided a natural sort of antidote. In a scientifically pure state this antidote is available to everybody under the trade name of Nujol. Nujol is a unique substance unlike anything else known to man. It cannot be absorbed by the body or any of the organs of the body. At the same time, it has an affinity for body poisons. It takes hold of them, absorbs them, and carries them out of the system safely and harmlessly. It also softens waste matter and brings about normal evacuation of the intestines. Gets rid of poisons, gets rid of food wastes, tends to heal and soothe irritated membranes. Contains no drugs or medicines. Absolutely harmless.

Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. It's in a class by itself. You can take it with perfect safety under any conditions. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys.

Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

BRICK SURFACE

Prevents Pavement Failure—

That saves taxpayers' money

Why do pavements fail?

First, because of damage by weather.

Second, because of traffic.

Unless the very nature of a pavement surface prevents it, water is absorbed—or taken in through tiny cracks. This, freezing, causes certain damage. Trucks and cars hit the defects—enlarge and multiply them rapidly.

Paving brick bound with asphalt and laid on a good base, is a surface impervious to water. Being vitrified, it is a surface that water does not penetrate. It also has sufficient resilience—"give"—to protect the base from heavy traffic pounding.

Tire chains do not shatter it; heat does not soften it and the weather does not affect it. Total upkeep costs on 30-year-old pavements are still almost nothing—and the bricks are good for another 30 years. Such records prove brick to be the cheapest of all pavement surfaces.

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build wear-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

Council Head Says County Should Pay Half Memorial Paving

SUGGESTS CITY STAND FOURTH

Emery E. Murphy Advocates Cemetery and Association Sharing in Expense

While unanimous in the belief that the boulevard which will serve as the northern border of the Harding Memorial grounds, and over the paving of which, the city and county are now in controversy, should be paved in order that it might be in harmony with the surroundings, members of city council are just as unanimous in their belief that the city is not being given fair consideration in the matter of assessing the cost of the work.

Giving the ground and then being asked to pay two-thirds of the cost of improving the road is held by council as not being just and equal. Various plans were suggested today by members of that body, which would reduce the city's portion of the cost.

It was suggested by Emery E. Murphy, president of council, that the cost be divided in such a way that the Marion County Cemetery Association and the Harding Memorial Association should each bear a portion of the cost. "I believe the road should be paved," Mr. Murphy said, "but I do not think it is fair to ask the city to pay two-thirds of the cost, which it has been estimated will be $40,000. I believe it would be only fair," Mr. Murphy continued, "if the county would pay 50 per cent of the cost, the city 25 per cent, the Harding Memorial Association 12½ per cent and the Marion County Cemetery Association the remaining 12½ per cent."

Schmidt's Plan

It has been suggested by Councilman Charles Schmidt, that, since there are no driveways into the grounds, it would be advisable from both the standpoint of economy and of adding to the beauty of the memorial, to build a winding drive into the grounds, entering from the Delaware road south of the memorial and joining the Vernon Heights boulevard at the rear of the memorial. The present road could be closed and made a part of the memorial lawn. If the present plans of paving the road are carried out, however, it is the opinion of Mr. Schmidt that the city should be made to bear a smaller portion of the cost.

That the Vernon Heights Realty Co. should bear a portion of the cost of paving the road, is the opinion expressed by Ralph B. Good, councilman-at-large. "Since the Vernoon Heights Realty Co. will share in the benefits of the improved road, I think it would be only fair that they bear a portion of the cost," Mr. Good said. He also said the cemetery association and the memorial association should each bear a portion of the cost.

"The road should be paved of course," said J. A. Wilkins, councilman from the first ward "but I do not believe the city should be asked to bear two-thirds of the cost. I do not believe this is fair and I am not in favor of carrying out the work on this basis."

Councilman Tom J. Mead of the second ward said he did not believe the work should be done at this time. "We are seeking to lower the city's indebtedness and I believe it would be just as well to put in a temporary road until the city is in a better financial condition to build a permanent road. I also believe the city is being asked to pay an unjust portion of the cost. When the matter was first brought to our attention several years ago we were given to understand that if the city would give the ground for a road that would be all that would be required. But we are now asked to pay two-thirds of the cost of improving it."

That the road should be paved in order that it might harmonize with the surroundings of the memorial, is the belief of A. H. Williams, councilman-at-large. "I think it would be fine to have the road paved," Mr. Williams said, "but I do not believe the city should bear two-thirds of the cost. The ground was given by the city for a road, and I believe this should be taken into consideration in assessing the cost and the city be asked to pay a smaller portion."

R. E. Prettyman, councilman-at-large, and chairman of the finance committee of council expressed the belief that it would not be policy from a financial standpoint, for the city to attempt to finance the building of the road at the present time. He also expressed the belief that the city was being asked to bear too large a portion of the cost. "It would be fine to have the road paved" Mr. Prettyman said, "but I do not believe the financial condition of the city would warrant it at this time and I also do not believe the city should be asked to pay two-thirds of the cost."

The building of the road was protested by City Solicitor George Geran acting on orders from city council and a hearing on the question will be held on Dec. 15.

Seventh Grade Girls Victorious in Prospect Spelling Contest

Prospect, Nov. 3—The seventh grade in Prospect Schools is composed of 22 girls and 22 boys. At a class meeting a month ago, it was decided to have a spelling contest between the girls and boys during the month of October. This contest ended Oct. 27, with an average of 96 per cent. for the girls, and an average of 88 per cent. for the boys. On Friday, Oct. 28, the boys entertained the girls with a weiner roast in Marion county park.

In banking on Tuesday the sixth and seventh grades both had 100 per cent. in deposits.

Grades one to seven received their grade cards on Tuesday.

The boys of the fifth and sixth grades had a wiener roast on the school grounds Thursday in honor of the girls of those grades, who were winners in a spelling contest.

SHOVEL'S SOUTHERN OFFICE TRANSFERRED

Moved from Atlanta, Ga., to Birmingham, Ala., Announcement

The southern district office of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. has been transferred from Atlanta, Ga., to Birmingham, Ala., in connection with reorganization of the company's sales department, it was announced today.

The office at Birmingham is in charge of Carl W. Fries, district manager, and E. M. Hanley, assistant district manager. Both are former Marion men, Mr. Hanley being the son of Mrs. Patrick Hanley, 315 Leader-st, and Mr. Fries the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Fries, 363 S. Prospect-st.

A report of opening of the new office appears in a recent issue of the Birmingham News, a copy of which was received here today. It states that Mr. Hanley, in addition to serving as district manager, will have charge of the company's business in Alabama. Three other salesmen will be employed. Prior to the transfer to Birmingham, the Marion concern's district office was located in Atlanta several years.

The territory to be served through the Birmingham office includes Alabama, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and the eastern part of Arkansas.

SUIT OVER WILL IS BEING HEARD HERE

Testimony Introduced Tending To Show Instrument Is Invalid

Testimony intended to show that the will of Mrs. Mattie Miller is invalid because she was incapacitated by ill health at the time the instrument was drawn was introduced in the court of common pleas this morning when the suit brought by her husband, Thomas Miller, to set aside the will, came up for hearing.

Mrs. Miller, who formerly resided on Olney-av, signed the will in August, 1926, about six months prior to her death. All of the estate, consisting of about $3,000 in money, was bequeathed to relatives of Mrs. Miller, with exception of the husband's dower.

Trial of the suit is expected to last all of today and may continue through a part of Friday morning's court session, attorneys indicated. The defendant in the suit of Harry Williams, executor of the will, which was admitted to probate prior to filing of the husband's contest proceeding.

Carhart & Warner are attorneys for the plaintiff and Wiedemann & Patton represent the executor and heirs.

Turns Out Battalion

As soon as word that the American girl flier had arrived was circulated, Commandant Weiss, turned out the entire battalion and proceeded to stage a private demonstration. Champagne was produced and, although half the officers and men were still in their working clothes, Ruth's and Haldeman's health was drunk with a gusto.

The field flares were lighted and cheers for the daring American girl and her companion rang through the air.

As soon as Ruth and Haldeman took off from the field, Commandant Weiss determined not to be caught napping as far as the social graces were concerned when the Americans returned. Accordingly he ordered one-half his men to get clothes more presentable to a woman and the other half were set to sweeping out the center hangar.

"Vive Elder"

One group also was set to painting huge red letters on the cement floor reading:

"Vive Elder."

After an hour and five minutes of flying over Paris, Ruth and Haldeman landed at Le Bourget. They took off at 9:45 a. m. and returned at 10:50.

As their plane neared the field, two military planes which escorted Ruth's flight, looped the loop about the Americans' plane in an aerial acrobatic salute.

Upon landing, Haldeman jumped from the plane first and immediately 200 officers and men of the field battalion gave evidence of the world-famous gallantry of Frenchmen. The whole 200 surrounded the Potez plane, all of them offering to assist Ruth to the ground.

Given Reception

Miss Elder hurried from the flying field to her hotel where she removed her flying clothes, including the now famous plus fours she wore on her overseas flight. Then she quickly dressed in one of her new Paris frocks for luncheon at the American Club.

Both Miss Elder and Haldeman were received by the senate aviation committee at the Luxembourg Palace and were heartily congratulated.

How to Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Most people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and rub it in night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed and anyone who is dissatisfied with its use can have their money refunded. STATES NEURITIS CENTERED IN HIS ARMS AND LIMBS

Could Hardly Stand Pains, But Konjola Ended All Misery; Says Marion Citizen.

"In the more severe cases of neuritis, the pains are piercing—just like hot daggers cutting into the nerves," said The Konjola Man a few days ago at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is introducing the new medical product, Konjola, to the people of Marion and vicinity.

MR. GEORGE R. TOBEY

"Many authorities have stated that the agony of neuritis is likened unto an electrical shock; the shooting pains may grab the sufferer at frequent intervals. Some call this affliction neuralgia; others say it is like rheumatism, but, in either event, it is a terrible affliction and one of the most agonizing diseases that mankind is heir to," continued the Konjola Man.

It is surprising what this new medical preparation, Konjola, will accomplish in so many instances of neuritis suffering. By invigorating the inner organs to healthy action, and stimulating the liver and kidneys, the poisons throughout the system are eliminated; the nerves become stronger, and within a brief space of time, this Konjola brings amazing relief to the neuritis sufferer. Where drugs and heart-weakening chemicals only produce temporary relief, this Konjola seems to go to the very seat of the trouble, and restores a healthy, normal condition in a natural way, so that the pains do not return. Many Marion people have taken Konjola for the suffering pains of neuritis, and instances of complete recovery are reported day after day. Just recently, Mr. George R. Tobey, well-known Marion citizen, living at R. F. D. 2, this city, made the following remarkable statement:

"For five years I had neuritis," he said. "The pains centered in my arms and limbs, and in the back of my neck. I could hardly stand the agony at times, because it was worse than torture. I felt like nothing would ever reach my suffering. I tried special treatments, medicines and remedies, and I don't know how many attempts I have made to regain my health, but I will say that everything put together was less effective than this Konjola. This new medicine began to relieve me within only a few days, and I noticed in a little while that the pains didn't come over me quite so often. As I continued to take Konjola I improved steadily, and at the present time, I will state that I am free of pains and suffering without and free of pains and suffering in every way. My head and neck is no longer affected and I can walk without any pain at all in my legs. With my neuritis finally gone, I am feeling like a younger man, and I have Konjola to thank for my new health. I cannot help but praise it.

The Konjola Man is at the Stump and Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold by all dependable druggists in every town throughout this whole section.—Adv.

Red and Black Gridders Pick Up in Practice Session

Only One League Game Scheduled For Saturday; Big Red Has Good Record

Three Harding First Stringers Out of Scrimmage Last Night On Account of Injuries; Shelby Has Open Date Before Mansfield Encounter

BY TOM BUCHANAN
Sports Editor of The Star

ONLY one North Central Ohio League game is scheduled for next Saturday. That is the annual clash between Harding High School and Mansfield High at the fairgrounds. Had Harding won from Bucyrus last Saturday the coming game might have been for the league championship but now it can only decide whether or not Harding is to stay in the running.

A victory for Harding Saturday and another at Shelby on Nov. 19 would give Harding a tie for first place honors. The other half of first place would go to the winner of the Mansfield-Shelby game Nov. 12. Providing, of course, that Mansfield doesn't lose to Ashland on Nov. 24, and the Big Red isn't likely to do that.

Impressive Record

Mansfield has an impressive record so far this year with only one game lost, and that to the strong North High School team of Columbus. The Big Red has rolled up a total of 219 points to 39 for the opponents in five games this season. Mansfield's record includes a 18 to 6 victory over Danville, an 18 to 13 loss to Columbus North, a 23 to 0 victory over Bucyrus, a 33 to 6 victory over Galion and a 152 to 0 victory over Delaware High School.

While Harding has a 58 to 18 edge over all opponents in number of points scored, the last 12 points scored against the Red and Black were costly. The loss to Bucyrus took the Red and Black out of the unbeaten column and also considerably lowered its chances of winning over Mansfield, at least so far as the dope sheet is concerned. Righ now Mansfield should be at least a 5 to 3 favorite to win the Saturday conflict.

The Red and Black may, however, pull an Ohio State and send Mansfield back over the same route that Chicago traveled last Saturday. And it is quite likely that it will take some such rejuvenation of the Red and Black to beat Mansfield.

There is no question that the showing the locals made last Saturday was not an exhibition of their best football, and Saturday isn't likely to see a repetition of the Bucyrus bungle.

Harding should be out to win Saturday if human nature on the team runs true to form. However, there have been some indications this week that the Bucyrus loss isn't being taken seriously. The scrimmage and preliminary drill Tuesday night was hardly satisfactory, although the team did go good in a long hard scrimmage Monday night.

Last night, however, there was more in the way of snap and fight in the scrimmage. Coach Bopher kept the boys going hard for better than half an hour and they seemed to like it.

Three Men Out

Three Harding first stringers weren't in the scrimmage although they were on the field. Evans, center, has a bad side as a result of a tumble on a rock that graces the center of the practice field. Lewis, left end, who recently recovered from a cracked collar bone, had a doubtful knee, and Houghton, the other wingman, is also limping.

Word from Bucyrus indicates that the Red and White is taking it easy after the Harding victory, the team having suffered a moral decline in the last day or so. Practice isn't going to suit Coach Winters who is trying to whip his team in shape for a non-conference clash with Fostoria at Bucyrus Saturday.

Ashland will take on Wooster High School on Friday afternoon at Ashland. Shelby has an open date before the tangle with Mansfield a week from Saturday.

HELEN IN NEW ROLE

Queen of Courts To Try For Stage Honors

San Francisco, Nov. 3—This will be a busy day for Miss Helen Wills, famous tennis star.

During the morning she will try out for a role in the Junior League Follies—either as star, ingenue or chorus girl. Ned Mayburn, director, told her that he was picking his players on their merits. Miss Wills replied that this method of selection was perfectly all right with her.

In the afternoon she will be presented with a bust of herself, the work of Haig Patigian, noted sculptor. Senator James D. Phelan will make the presentation at the City Hall.

With the Chinese the rose is the favorite flower for planting over graves.

PRINCETON AND OHIO STATE OUTSTANDING INTERSECTIONAL BATTLE

BIG TEN TEAMS HAVE HARD WEEK IN PREPARATION FOR WEEK-END

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 3—Timm, halfback, is expected to return to the Illinois varsity today after a layoff that resulted from injuries in the Michigan game. Coach Zuppke has indicated he will put the Illini charges through a light signal drill before the squad entrains for Iowa City tonight to battle Iowa in a homecoming game Saturday.

NOTRE DAME VICTORIOUS AT HOME SINCE 1905

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 3—Not since 1905, when Wabash won over Notre Dame here, has an Irish eleven been defeated in a football contest on the home field. And this year's eleven, determined to keep this record intact, today started strenuous work on the offensive plays to be used Saturday against Herb Joesting and his Minnesota pals. All the Irish regulars will be available for the Gopher contest.

* * *

ILLINI TO PLAY AT IOWA HOMECOMING

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 3—Iowa University gridders today face a long signal drill in preparation for the homecoming struggle with Illinois Saturday. The Varsity squad will reveal the new offensive plays against a picked second eleven. The Hawkeyes light backfield which has borne the brunt of the attack this year is expected to give the Illini forward line a lot of trouble.

* * *

CHICAGO, MICHIGAN REVIVE OLD FEUD

Chicago, Nov. 3—Following a "pep" banquet at which University of Chicago football players were given their orders to "beat Michigan," Stagg's Maroon hopefuls took the practice field today with a determination that boded no good for Weiman's Wolverines. The banquet was tendered by 500 members of the Chicago Alumni Association. It is whispered the footballers were fed a generous portion of raw meat. The Chicago-Michigan feud will be revived here Saturday.

* * *

GILBERT BACK IN MICHIGAN LINEUP

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 3—With Len Gilbert back in the lineup and prospects good that he will be able to start Saturday against Chicago, much of the gloom occasioned by the Illinois defeat today had lifted. Gilbert, perhaps the star punter of the Big Ten Conference, will be depended upon to maintain Michigan's gridiron supremacy over its ancient rival, Chicago.

* * *

PURDUE AIMS TO STOP NORTHWESTERN

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 3—Working out a defense aimed at stopping Northwestern's heavy artillery in the persons of Lewis, Gustafson and Holmer, occupied the attention of Coach Phelan today. His squad, having suffered two conference defeats, is determined to "take" Dick Hanley's Purple machine when it rolls in here Saturday. The Boilermakers are training more enthusiastically than ever before.

* * *

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 3—Dick Hanley's Northwestern Wildcats, still smarting from two successive football setbacks, today engaged in their last strenuous scrimmage before tackling Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday. The regular varsity backfield, Lewis, Gustafson, Holmer and Levinson, are once more intact and "rarin' to go."

* * *

GOPHERS GO TO SOUTH BEND

Minneapolis, Nov. 3—One of the three Gopher kickers, Barnhart, Riddel and Pharmer, will probably be awarded the punting contract today for the game with Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend. Pharmer appears to be the likely choice. His long, high spirals have been traveling from forty to fifty yards in the practice sessions.

HOOSIERS TAKE ON MICHIGAN STATE

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 3—With the Hoosier yearlings using opposition plays, the Indiana varsity team today continued its drive to get in shape for the annual battle with Michigan State here Saturday. The yearlings have had the first string outfit puzzled somewhat by the open Michigan State formations and Coach Page has warned his charges not to underrate the visitors.

ARMOUR AND HAGEN LIKELY FINALISTS IN GOLF TOURNEY

Best Pro Golfers in Country Compete for $16,000 Classic

Cedar Crest Country Club, Dallas, Texas, Nov. 3—Prospects of some of the greatest golf ever uncorked in the country lured large galleries to this course today for the third and quarter final round match play in the National Professional Golfers Association championship tournament.

Heading the day's card in the $16,000 classic, claimed to be the richest ever staged in the realm of the links is an exceedingly promising setto between Tommy Armour, U. S. and Canadian open champion, and Walter Hagen, two year defending champion of the P. G. A.

They collide in the upper bracket following easy and well earned victories in the second round Wednesday. The Armour-Hagen match got by far the biggest play from the fans as the third round started, although there were good sprinklings of golf followers trailing the other three matches.

The lineup for the day follows:

Upper bracket: Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., vs. Walter Hagen, Pasadena, Fla.; Martie Dutra, Tacoma, Wash., vs. Al Espinosa, Glencoe, Ill.

Lower bracket: Gene Sarazen, Flushing, N. Y., vs. Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y.; John Golden, Paterson, N. J., vs. Francis Gallett, Wauwatosa, Wis.

As play got under way, the dopesters began rating the Hagen-Armour winner as the likely 1927 champion. Hagen is an 8 to 5 favorite in the betting to beat the national open champion. Either one will be a favorite over either Dutra or Espinosa. The latter is conceded the best chance to that match.

GOLF WIDOWS ALONE AT NIGHT IF THIS IS GOOD

New York, Nov. 3—The announcement that Columbia University chemsits are working on a substance to provide a permanent glow for golf balls, enabling night play, was made today following the first experiment in night golfing at Van Cordtland Park last night. Players used a ball which retained a phosphorescent glow for nearly ten minutes and was easily followed down the fairway.

Slattery To Boss Braves

New Manager Well Known Baseball; Was Former Coach

Boston, Nov. 3—Jack Slattery, prominent figure in baseball for the past twenty years, will manage the 1928 Boston Braves. This announcement made last night by Judge Fuchs owner of the team, after Slattery had signed a one year contract in writing today.

In selecting Slattery as the successor to Dave Bancroft, ousted manager of the team, Judge Fuchs considered more than a dozen candidates for the berth, including Tris Speaker, Wade Killifer and others of equal importance.

Slattery was field assistant to George T. Stallings with the Braves in 1913 and 1915, and during his coaching days at Tufst, Harvard and Boston College he occupied a coaching berth with the Braves. He will be no stranger to local fans, nor to the needs of Boston baseball.

After graduating from Fordham Slattery made his baseball bow with the Boston Americans during the reign of Jimmy Collins as manager. Slattery, always a hard hitter, was considered a brainy backstop.

Following his career with the Boston club, Slattery later played with Jimmy Callahan's Chicago White Sox, Joe Cantillon's Washington Senators and later palyed in the Pacific Coast league and American Association.

Shakeup

Penn Backfield Gets Jolt As Vet Goes on Bench

Philedalphia, Pa., Nov. 3—The first sensational shakeup in Penn's backfield for the current season came today with the benching of fullback Al Wascolonis, two season veteran. The shakeup, which is expected to hold for the Harvard game Saturday, left quarterback Murphy at half, Martin Brill at half, Paul Scull at fullback and Johnny Schober at quarterback.

tory of New League Prexy eads Like Alger Thriller

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

YORK, Nov. 3 — It had occurred to me that I ought to get around to write this story on Alger to write this story on Alger, to write this story on E. S. Barnard, of Cleveland, be- E. S. Barnard, of Cleveland, be- president of the American president of the American at a salary of $10,000, which, at a salary of $10,000, which,

E. S. BARNARD

Ban Sure To Stay

Ban Johnson never conceived the day Ban Johnson never conceived the day he would step down—and out— he would step down—and out— the baseball world. But he was- baseball world. But he was- today and it is a rather today and it is a rather that has declared E. S. that has declared E. S. Barnard, who was Johnson's business step child, definitely in. Barnard might still be a sports editor in Columbus, O., if it hadn't been for Johnson's interest and influence.

He might still be a bookkeeper for the Toledo club, or—and that is just the point—he might not have. For Johnson's intervention saved that job for him and, there being a cash till but no particular reason for it, it was Johnson's personal money that paid his salary.

But that was twelve years ago when the Federal League strife was on and Johnson's every word was baseball's own. The Feds at the time had decided to invade Cleveland and, just to make a round robin out of it or something, Charles W. Somers, then Cleveland owner, decided to transfer his Toledo Club into Cleveland, which gave the latter city a franchise in both the American League and the American Association.

Only an Ache

What Somers wanted was to give organized baseball a continuous performance in Cleveland. What he got was a headache. He wired Johnson to that general effect, saying among other things that he would have to let Barnard go to trim ship. Johnson bounced right back, demanding Barnard's retention as too good a man to let out and promising to pay the man's salary out of his own pocket.

It was a very gracious and generous gesture by a man who had everything toward a man who had little or nothing and seemed due to have less very hurriedly. But that was twelve years ago and it doesn't take twelve minutes nowadays to upset a dynasty.

The foregoing is not written as a reflection upon any man in baseball who collaborated in Johnson's passing. Johnson obviously had to go and, unpleasant though the business was, club owners who had been made by Johnson's patronage had to take the slap as being the men who forced him out of power. Barnard, merely a paid employe of the Cleveland club, naturally followed the rest.

Second Time Yesterday

He is, in fact, a conformist of the first water and it is fact, not fancy, that the American League, feeling the need of such a man after Johnson's stormy reign, elected him president—subject to Judge Landis' approval—five minutes after Johnson had resigned under pressure. They had to make it look right, however, so they went through the hocus pocus all over again in Chicago yesterday.

And, so, I have reached the end of my story without even saying what I have been trying to say all along, to wit: That Ban Johnson, faults and all, was a pretty white citizen.

EAR SCRAMBLING GAME NEEDS UNIFICATION—MENKE

BY FRANK G. MENKE

THIS civil war in pugilistic America now has reached a point where, if something drastic isn't done to salvage the situation, the whole thing will crash upon the rocks.

Boxing cannot endure for long in public respect if various governing bodies continue the studied effort to make the other organizations look cheap and tawdy.

In 23 Out of 26

In this land there is an organization which calls itself the National Boxing Association, and which governs the sport in 23 out of 26 states where the mug hammering game is legalized. But it happens that three states—New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania were entirely too snobbish—or something like that—to hook up with the outfit.

So 23 states have their unified rules while New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts make their own.

What is construed as fair and considered very clubby in New York probably is entirel ytaboo in Ohio or California—and vice versa. What Massachusetts usually does is scoffed at by New York, sniffed at by Pennsylvania and booted at by the 23 National Boxing Association states.

A fighter can be a bum and an undesirable in New York—and a lionized character in 25 other states. And vice versa.

Instead of trying to create public esteem for each other, these rival boxing outfits seem to be operating for exactly the opposite purpose. If the N. B. A. adopts some new rule, or it usually follows that New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, emit loud and very derisive hisses.

No Unification

If a fighter pulls a phoney duel in New York, he gets himself suspended there. But no matter how heinous was his crime, and how justifiable the punishment, he's generally welcome in all the N. B. A. states—and also in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

Should a ringman commit 98 fouls, break 108 contracts and shoot 11 referees in one of the N. B. A. states, he is suspended by that body, and is barred from indulging in further warfare in all the states affiliated with the N. B. A.

But New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania generally take the attitude that the N. B. A. is made up of a flock of bimbees who were terribly cruel and harsh with the dear boy—and they welcome him with open arms and give him the key to all of their rings.

If you want to draw a real head on the contrariness of the whole kaboodle, you might peruse how the vacated light heavyweight situation was handled.

Ideas Differ

But the N. B. A. had a different idea. It named five men who were to fight it out to determine who was champion under their jurisdiction. Three of the men spurned the chance to clamber into the tourney. That left only Jimmy Slattery and Max Rosenblum to fight it out. Slattery won that rather dismal shindig and promptly was hailed as champion by the N. B. A.

Meanwhile, McTigue took on Tommy Loughran and Tommy spanked Mike, which makes Tommy the champion so far as New York and Pennsylvania are concerned.

Soon after Mike was handed that shellacking, by Loughran, he agreed to fight a negro named Larry Gaines. His early refusal to go through with that affair had brought about his suspension in N. B. A. states. But with Mike's promise to mingle with Gaines, the N. B. A. lifted his suspension.

Now that Mike is regarded again as a fair haired child in the N. B. A. states, he is about to be matched with Slattery, the winner to be acclaimed champion of the light heavies in the N. B. A. states.

Why, you perhaps ask, wouldn't the N. B. A. recognize Loughran as the champion, even if McTigue whips Slattery, in view of the fact that Loughran prove superiority by whipping McTigue? Well, the N. B. A. would refuse to acclaim Loughran as champion mainly because New York calls Loughran champion—and that makes it wrong with the N. B. A. states, no matter what actually may be correct.

For three consecutive years, 1905-06-07, no home runs were made in the World Series.

Buckeyes Prepare for Princeton Game; Team To Leave Tonight

Columbus, Nov. 3—Still handicapped by friction and discontent centering around their head coach and mentor, Dr. J. W. Wilce the Ohio State eleven went through routine drills today in preparation for the intersectional battle with Princeton Saturday. The squad will leave here tonight for the eastern campus. The Ohio State Alumni Association and the Student Senate of Ohio State voted disapproval of the demand of Toledo Alumni Chapter that Coach Wilce resign.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 3—Apparently anticipating the toughest battle of the season's schedule in the Ohio State invasion Saturday, Princeton was indulging in the stiffest week of training experienced this year. Past scrimmage was on the docket again today following yesterday's 13 to 0 victory by the varsity over the scrubs in a hard half hour battle featured by Scarlett's all running. Princeton's goal is to head for the Yale encounter it's last of the season, with an unblemished record.

DELANEY TO MEET VICTOR OF SHARKEY-HEENEY BATT

Nervous Folks Need This New Discovery

Bradley's Drug Store Offers Lifetone Tablets to Build Up "Shot to Pieces" Nerves or Money Back.

Knowing that your unhappy condition is caused by nerves you can't control what are you going to do about it? Are you going around with that depressed and gloomy look, avoiding contact with friends; letting the world know that nervousness is getting the best of you—is robbing you of your health—your energy—your vitality?

Or are you going to do something to get rid of this nervous condition? Have you "lost your nerve" entirely, or are you going to look the facts in the face and start today to become a real energetic useful man again?

No matter what put you in such a nervous condition, remember that Lifetone Tablets are compounded for the purpose of helping nervous men and women and if for any reason they do not help you to get rid of all nervousness and at the same time cause you to grow more vigorous in body and mind, keep in mind,—Bradley's Drug Store and any live wire druggist anywhere will gladly return the purchase price.

Twenty-two tablets for $1.00—not much to pay for steady nerves and bright eyes and a buoyant feeling all the long.—Adv.

SIGN BATTLER

Spug Myers Booked To Fight Sammy Mandell in No-tie Go

Chicago, Nov. 3—Spug Myers, the slashing Idaho battler, has been signed to meet Sammy Mandell, World's lightweight champion, in the ten-round main event of Joe Coffey's show here Nov. 14, it became known today.

Mandell's title will not be at stake, the weight being at 137 pounds, two pounds over the lightweight limit.

Promoter Coffey said he had tried to sign both Jimmy McLarnin, the Pacific Coast sensation, and Billy Wallace to meet Mandell, but an early match between McLarnin and Wallace in Detroit made them unavailable at this time.

NAME COMMITTEE TO SELECT CANDIDATES

Eight Offices in Bucyrus C. of C. To Be Vacated This Year

Bucyrus, Nov. 3—A Chamber of Commerce nominating committee consisting of C. L. Roser, Fred Wise, F. D. Lynch, F. T. Johnson, Fay Beech, W. E. Krauter and O. W. Coe was appointed this week to choose 16 candidates to fill eight offices being vacated this year in the organization.

The candidates will be elected at the annual meeting Dec. 6.

The chamber at a meeting yesterday, mailed out more requests for financial help in its attempt to bring the McCarron-Bucyrus Grave Vault Co. here when a check up revealed that only $5,000 of the necessary $20,000 had been raised. Efforts of the Chamber of Commerce committee will be concentrated this week on securing pledges for the necessary $15,000 of stock to assure the company for Bucyrus.

HOLD M'PHERSON FOR COUNTY GRAND JURY

Officials Believe That Eckert Did Not Attend Party at Crestline

Bucyrus, Nov. 3—George McPherson, 20, is still held in the county jail under $2,000 bond for appearance before the next grand jury charged with assault and battery on Ernest Eckert, Ray Brewer, 21, is also held at Crestline for investigation with William Rose, arrested at 11 o'clock Tuesday night on a liquor charge and held for investigation in connection with an alleged booze party, said to have been held at his home Saturday night.

Officials believe they have established that Eckert did not attend the alleged party at the Rose home and had no connection with the Heckler murder. His movements have been accounted for on Saturday night, it is said.

Heckler, it was learned yesterday, was under the influence of liquor Saturday night and a broken whisky bottle was found in one of his pockets after his body was recovered from the Sandusky River.

ELECTRO-MAGNETISM OPENS NEW WAY TO HEALTH

Read What It Did For Blindness, Constipation, Varicose Veins and Physical Pains

The Sensation of the Day.

Mr. Frank A. Pettitt (address upon request), had been in terrible physical pains, ever since he went blind, six years ago. He had nervous shooting pains all over his body, also chronic constipation, and large knotted varicose veins. When he first called for treatment, four weeks ago, he had to be led as he could not see.

Electro-magnetism is doing wonders for him now. For he now goes downtown alone, and can even read the numbers on the office door. His varicose veins are entirely gone. And he is completely cured of constipation. His wife has also been relieved of lumbago.

All this may sound too good to be true—it is the short road to health, the greatest of all wealth. It is something entirely new and different—the discovery by one of the world's most noted scientists of Europe. And endorsed by the leading authorities of the world. The cures wrought in many ailments long considered incurable are so very remarkable, as to be of unbelief. We have the evidence, however. No drugs, serums, surgery, or manipulations of any kind are used. The treatment is very delightful, soothing to the nerves; and can be taken while comfortably sitting in a chair—without even removing the clothes. So regardless of what your ailment may be, or what else you may have tried and failed before, do not give up. Not until you have, at least, looked into this wonder of the age. You will never regret it. But, you will ever after thank the day you took advantage of it. We want the most difficult cases.

The Sykodoner produces the most wonderful phenomena you ever before saw in all your life. It is startling in its results; it will interest you with amazement. All who see it are astounded with its mysterious phenomena. No one has yet been able to explain it. Yet it is now here in Marion. Call today. See it demonstrated, and take the delightful twenty-minute treatment free. There will be no cost or obligation. If you cannot call, phone 4116 for appointment, when a representative will be very glad to call, and demonstrate the unique invention to you, in the comfort of your own home. And all without cost.

The Sykodoner does not treat the effects. It removes the cause—toxemic poisons, the cause for most chronic ailments. You cannot afford to miss it. Crowds of others are now doing so. Why not you?

Marion Sykodoner Office, 324 Holmes pl., (near Hotel Harding). Phone 4116. Hours 8 to 5 daily. Evenings and Sundays by appointment only.—Adv.

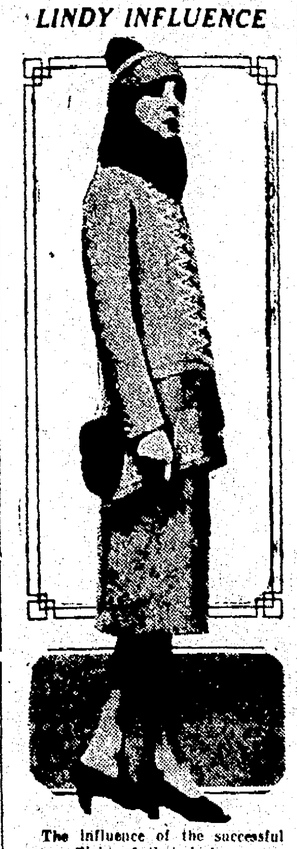
Getting Up Nights

For Bladder Relief. Is Nature's Danger Signal. Columbus Minister's Wife Relates Experience

Rev. W. H. Mitchell, 824 No. Park St., Columbus, Ohio, says in his own home paper, the Columbus Dispatch: "My wife was troubled seriously with bladder irritation until we used Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). She had to get up 6 to 8 times each night. Will gladly answer any letter."

Lithiated Buchu acts on the bladder as salts do on the bowels. Drives out foreign matter and decreases excessive acidity, thereby relieving irritation. The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at Carl G. Ungericht, Druggist.—Adv.

LINDY INFLUENCE



The influence of the successful ocean flight of that daring young aviator, Col. Lindbergh, is still felt in fashion circles, at least in Paris. Suzanne Talbot, creates this suit of tweed with braid and fur trimmings and has named it "Lindy," after him. The skirt is given a slightly irregular hemline, while the jacket has a decided lift in front with a circular flounce effect that is unusual.

Industrial, Motor, Oil, Rail Stocks Spirited Rally

BULLS REGAIN THROTTLE-HOLD

Good Portion of Week's Early Losses Are Restored in Movement

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, irregular; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, firm; foreign bonds, irregular; call money 3½ per cent; grain, irregular; copper, steady; oil, irregular; cotton, reactionary; rubber, irregular; sugar, reactionary; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, Nov. 3—A spirited rally in the industrial, motor, oil and a few of the railroad stocks today restored a good portion of the losses sustained in early part of the week, and once more placed the bullish forces in command of the market.

The advance was led by United States Steel, General Motors, General Electric, American Can, Atlantic Refining and other of the speculative leaders which bore the brunt of last week's aggressive selling, in that downward movement the short interest had been enormously increased, real liquidation was in much smaller volume than had been generally believed, the technical position of stocks improved, and the way thus pared for a sharp "snap back" of prices.

Report Investment Buying

The commission houses reported a moderate amount of speculative buying, as well as investment buying of the better grade of dividend-payers. But short-covering and pool activities were probably responsible for most of the sharp rallies in prices in the fore part of the day, as well as the new declines in other sections of the list.

Most of the industrial comment of the day centered around the trend of prices of important commodities. Tire manufacturers cut prices of new tires about 5 per cent, to bring them in line with the recent cut of the Firestone Co. Fuel oil was quoted at a lower range of prices owing to the influx of cheaper West Texas crude oil into eastern markets. Instead of recording an improvement, steel prices moved down lower today, according to prices quoted at Chicago and Pittsburgh for bars, shapes and wires.

COTTON

New York, Nov. 3 — Cotton prices opened lower today, down four to five points. December opened five points lower at 20.85; January 20.92, down 04, and March 21.02, down 05.

Chicago, Nov. 3—Wheat futures rallied late in the session yesterday, due to local buying and the steadiness of the Winnipeg market. Prices were lower most of the session with the trade of limited volume and decidedly local in character. Developments are awaited in the situation which will carry the market sharply in one direction or the other.

Corn prices were lower most of the day, recovering considerable of the loss late in the session, but nevertheless showing a net decline for the session. There was a steady to firm tone to the oats market, while rye held above the preceding closing figures much of the time.

Cables Are Weak

Weakness of the Liverpool market was the depressing influence at the outset. It brought on scattered selling, but the market soon rallied on buying for local account. Prices could not be maintained in the face of some hedging by the Northwest and some local selling, which was stimulated by the weakness of corn.

There was wheat for sale on the rallies and the trade was somewhat depressed by the report calling for statements on all open accounts of 500,000 bushels or more.

Selling of corn was on a liberal scale, much of it for local account, but considerable by a house with western connections. Latter was of March delivery. There was some selling in way of closing up spreads with wheat. Buying was scattered, shorts being rather prominent in the latter part of the session, when wheat rallied.

Corn Movement Liberal

Movement of corn from the interior is liberal and four cars of new corn were included in the receipts. The quality of the new crop may start it to market early in the season, especially as supplies of live stock are rather light in the surplus sections.

Shipping demand for cash corn is moderate. It is said that stocks of corn in the hands of eastern distributors are light.

Oats were steady to firm with trade light. Houses with eastern connections bought December oats, and there was selling by cash interests and commission house longs.

Orders were here to buy December and sell May oats at 2c difference, with some business done at 1⅞c difference. Receipts remain light and shipping demand moderate.

Rye was firm much of the time. Offerings were small and there was scattered buying.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Dealers report buying fair with prices unchanged and markets carrying a large stock of practically all kinds of seasonable vegetables. Cabbage continues plentiful and dealers today were offering cabbage for kraut at $1.15 a hundred. A small amount of red cabbage was being carried by dealers that was selling at 10 cents a pound. The leaf vegetables were plentiful although it is thought by dealers that the frost of last night will reduce the supply. Spinach was being offered at 20 cents, endive at 25 cents, leaf lettuce at 15 cents and head lettuce at 10 and 15 cents a head. Carrots were plentiful and were selling at five cents a pound. Tomatoes are higher. A few were coming on the market today that were selling at 10 cents a pound. Cauliflower is holding at 20 cents, the supply is limited with a demand about normal.

Fruit Prices Steady

Retail fruit prices are steady. Peaches have disappeared from the market. Apples continue plentiful and are holding at the prices of earlier in the season, that of $1 to $3. Homegrown grapes have practically disappeared from the market. A few are being carried by dealers who report the sale light at 10 cents a pound. Cranberries are selling at 18 cents today, an advance of three cents over the price of earlier in the week.

Retail meat dealers report their prices as steady today with an increase in the demand.

HOLD AUDITOR FOR SHORTAGE OF $5,500

Springfield Official Jailed; Friends Say He Bet on Races

Springfield, Nov. 3—C. Percy Moorehead, city auditor, was arrested here last night on a charge of embezzlement. It is alleged he is short $5,000 of the city's funds.

City Manager Robert W. Flack, who first accused Moorehead of being short, said the auditor confessed to him he embezzled $5,000.

Moorehead was sent to jail. He refused to make any statement.

Friends intimate he spent the money gambling on races.

State examiners arrived here two weeks ago and began checking the city's books. It is reported they were the first to find errors in the auditor's books.

Moorehead today pleaded not guilty when arraigned in municipal court charged with embezzling approximately $5,000 from the street improvement fund. He was bound to the grand jury under bond of $10,000.

Don't dose a Child's Cold

CONTINUAL dosing upsets children's delicate stomachs. Vicks is applied externally and therefore cannot disturb the digestion. It acts in two ways:

(1) The body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors which are inhaled.

(2) At the same time Vicks "draws out" the soreness like a poultice.

C. F. DIGEL IS WITH SPRINGFIELD COURT

Former Children's Home Head Here Takes Post as Probation Officer

Carl F. Digel, former superintendent of the Marion County Children's home who recently resigned from a similar position in Franklin County, has accepted appointment as probation officer in the juvenile court at Springfield, according to information received by county officials here today.

Digel's resignation as superintendent of the Franklin County home became effective Oct. 25. According to plans outlined at that time, Franklin County officials intend to cease operation of their children's home and to substitute a new arrangement under which children will be assigned to private homes.

Digel served as superintendent of the Marion County home several years prior to accepting the position in Franklin County.

MARILYN MILLER IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Decree Granted Because Pickford Refused To Live with Her

The decree was granted on the grounds that Pickford refused to live with her.

Considerable comment was caused early in the summer by the announcement that a divorce was planned and it was predicted that the decree might be denied because of criticism directed at the French courts for granting divorces to Americans without sufficient grounds.

Don't Ignore Acid Scalp!

We have all been too close to people whose hair had a noticeable odor. It is due to an acidity that soap and water are powerless to prevent. You may not have acid scalp. Or you may have it and not know it. But dandruff should make you suspicious, and hair that "strings" is a sure sign.

When hair has a dull, "dead" look after curling—and the wave is all out a few hours after use of the iron—it is time to use Danderine. Just a few drops of this highly scientific preparation will check acidity, and give your hair such lovely softness that dressing it will be a delight. It will arrange easily, and stay as you arrange it. Every particle of scale will be dissolved. It makes an amazing difference. And for only thirty-five cents, your druggist will give you a bottle of Danderine that will last for weeks.—Adv.

PYTHIANS WINNERS OF EUCHRE CONTEST

Marion Lodge No. 402 Defeats Elks' Lodge by Decisive Score

Marion Lodge No. 402, Knights of Pythias, scored a decisive victory last night over Marion Lodge No. 92, B. P. O. Elks, in one of a series of euchre contests being staged by the two organizations. Last night's games, held at the Elks' building on S. State-st, ended up with the Pythians leading by a margin of 126 points.

In a contest held at the Knights of Pythias hall last week, the Elks won by a single point. The third meeting between the two euchre teams will take place at the Knights of Pythias quarters the night of Nov. 16.

The losing side will be required to pay for a lunch following the contest. In connection with contests up to this time, lunch has been provided by the lodge acting as host.

THEY ALL SAY "IT'S SPLENDID"

Before he took Pepgen Tonic Frank W. Schultz, 210 Oakley St., Evansville, Ind., could not eat a bite of food that did not distress him. He had dizzy spells and headaches every day. His back ached, too. Since taking Pepgen Tonic he is in fine health. This is a good example of what Pepgen Tonic has done for thousands of people. Try it.

Pepgen Tonic is sold and recommended by Bradley's Drug Store and other well stocked drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

LIGHT UP
People do not make purchases in stores that are on dark streets, and with dimly lighted interiors. There are few exceptions to this rule. The merchant with the growing business is the merchant who has a well-lighted store along with a good stock.
